Hearst Support Explained
as Reaction to Administration's Refusal to Continue Tax Privileges.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said in a campaign speech tonight that William Randolph Hearst is "the new Republican boss" and that sworn court testimony showed the publisher had cautioned Governor Alf M. Landon "against talking too much."

"A word of caution from that source was all that Governor Landon needed," Ickes added. The cabinet officer's speech, broadcast by the Democratic national committee, concluded:

"Do the American people want to be heard over the White House? This is one of the most important issues if not in fact the transcendent issue, of this campaign."

Ickes explained the publisher's advocacy of Landon by declaring Hearst had been denied the special privilege of filing consolidated income tax returns for his many corporations by the Roosevelt administration, a privilege, the secretary said, which had been accorded by previous administrations.

Ickes said the practice enabled Hearst to pay less money into the federal treasury "and he simply had to find a candidate."

Ickes utilized evidence he said was

Pilot Slightly Hurt In Plane Crash Here

Crashing to the ground from an altitude of 100 feet, a trimotored Delta Air Lines transport plane was badly damaged at 6:15 o'clock yesterday morning at the Atlanta municipal airport and Charles H. Dolson, who was testing the plane before it was returned to service, was injured.

A new motor has been installed and was being tested before being put back in service, company officials said.

Dolson suffered a sprained back and an injured arm. Pullman Norton, an assistant flying with Dolson at the time of the crash, escaped injury and helped take the pilot from the wreckage.

"As soon as we got well off the ground our left wing started rising," Norton said in describing the crash. "Then the ship went into a spin, banked about 100 feet and the ground started coming up. Dolson turned off the motors to prevent fire and the left wing hit the tree."

The tree on the western boundary of the field was struck at about 75 feet, it was said. Dolson was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital, where he was admitted for observation. He was reported in good condition last night.

Officials of the air line company were unable to explain the crash last night and are investigating with Department of Commerce officials.

Fog Ends Test Hop Of Richman, Merrill

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 27.—(UP)—Dick Merrill, Eastern Air Lines pilot, and Harry Richman, radio entertainer, returned to Newark airport tonight after fog prevented them from reaching New York from which they expect to take off tomorrow afternoon on a round-trip "airman's holiday" flight to London.

The fliers turned back after 710 miles. The plane will be taken to Floyd Bennett airport, New York, from which they expect to take off tomorrow afternoon on a round-trip "airman's holiday" flight to London.

4 Are Mentioned For Dern's Place

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—While Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas, became acting secretary of war today on the death of Secretary Dern, President Roosevelt has given no indication as to who Dern's eventual successor will be.

As assistant secretary, Woodring was the active head of the War Department, aided by General Malin Craig, chief of staff, during the secretary's long illness.

A former governor of Kansas, his name has been mentioned in unofficial discussions of possible successors to Dern, along with the names of Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines; Governor Paul McNutt, of Indiana, and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, of New York city.

Murphy, now on leave from his Philippine post, is the Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan.

Observation here, however, any consideration of him for the important cabinet post would depend on the outcome of his race for governor.

Moffett, now on leave from his Philippine post, is the Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan.

TALMADGE PLANS DESPERATE DRIVE IN TOUR OVER STATE

Governor Will Make 14 Speeches in Week During 3,000-Mile Journey, Longest He Ever Made.

As the Russell drums beat out a new charge day after day, Governor Talmadge yesterday completed plans for 14 speeches next week which will take him on a state-wide tour, 3,000 miles long, the most extensive he has made since he became governor.

In a desperate effort to turn the tide of battle, which is rising daily against him, Talmadge has arranged for five speeches in mornings, six in the afternoons and three at night. More may be added before next week is ended.

The Russell forces, with a battle cry of "attack," "attack," are answering every bugle call with a forward rush. Talmadge, meeting an onslaught the like of which he has never before experienced, is seeking frantically to stem the avalanche which is daily engulfing him.

To Travel 3,000 Miles.

Next week's official itinerary was not announced but it was learned that the Governor and his retinue will travel approximately 3,000 miles on the tour and speak at least once in every congressional district in the state. Arrangements have been made to broadcast a majority of the speeches.

The three night speeches are set for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. These are to be broadcast. If the Governor finds that his long schedule prevents his coming to Atlanta to make these speeches he may have them delivered by some of his leading supporters.

Full announcement of the schedule is expected to be made today or tomorrow.

TALMADGE FLAYED FOR EVADING ISSUE

Russell Points to Silence With Reference to His Griffin Questions.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. charged in a speech here today that Governor Talmadge, his opponent for renomination, had failed to answer questions about his "Griffin" platform "because if he was truthful he would have to get out of the race."

At Griffin yesterday, Russell said, he left "nailed down" on the speaker's platform questions about the platform, but the Governor "ignored them."

"Even his most ardent supporters wouldn't vote for him if he told the truth—that he had betrayed the farmers who put him on Capitol hill by not even mentioning them in his platform," Russell said.

Farmers Neglected.

"There is not a word about the farmers; there is not a word that says a ray of hope to the average man in that platform he announced at McRae."

"He's gone so far from that platform now that he's trying to get back all copies he distributed and is even taking some of my planks so that he can have something like a platform."

Russell spoke at Sylvania during the morning where 30 pretty girls acted as his "bodyguard." A motorcade from Statesboro, Swainsboro, Waynesboro and Savannah made up a portion of his crowd.

WELLS LAUDS KEY, RAPS HARTSFIELD

Official Acts Are 'Above
Board,' Attacks Unjust.

James L. Wells, opponent of Mayor Key and William B. Hartsfield for the mayoralty nomination in Wednesday's municipal primary, last night scored Hartsfield and took up the cudgel in behalf of Key defending the mayor from Hartsfield's thrusts.

Key spoke from the same platform and warned voters "some candidates take themselves too seriously, but I do not believe you are yet ready to turn your government over to rank amateurs."

The meeting was billed in the interest of Councilman John A. White, who is seeking one of the two councilmanic posts from the newly created fifth ward, and all city-wide candidates as well as candidates for county offices were invited to speak. About a score of them took advantage of the opportunity.

Both Key and Wells appeared and delivered short addresses.

Addresses Scheduled.

Key will speak before the Industrial Democratic Club at 8 o'clock tonight at the Fulton community house as a result of a petition from 1,800 persons asking him to appear.

White will speak at the Tenth Street school at 8 o'clock and all candidates have been invited to attend and will be accorded the privilege of the rostrum.

Robinson To Answer Landon Over Radio

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Democratic Majority Leader Joe T. Robinson, in a radio address from here, tomorrow night, will reply to Governor Alf M. Landon's attack upon administration tax policies.

He will speak over Columbia coast-to-coast network from 9:45 to 10 p. m. (Atlanta time) on "Tax Fakes and Budget Bunk."

The address will be in reply to charges made by the Republican presidential nominee in a speech Wednesday night at Buffalo.

Robinson plans several radio speeches and a brief speaking tour in the early fall as part of the presidential campaign.

Talmadge's 'Shoulder Riding' Stunt Said Directed by 'Stage Manager'

John M. Hutchison, for six years a member of the house of representatives from Walker county, and 1933 member of the senate from his district, tells a good story about the feat staged at practically every one of the Talmadge speakings in which after the Governor's address he is, amidst applause, taken from the stage and carried off on the shoulders of exuberant supporters.

Mr. Hutchison says that the day before Talmadge spoke last week in Lafayette, a stranger appeared and, encountering J. L. Wyatt in the public square, asked him if he "could give him a place for the night. Mr. Wyatt is a prominent citizen of Walker county and agreed to put the stranger up for the night."

In the conversation that evening the stranger told Mr. Wyatt that he was going a day ahead of Talmadge to each of his speaking engagements so as to arrange for the shoulder-carrying act of the next day.

"You will see tomorrow," he said, "how it is done." Sure enough the next day after Talmadge had finished his address, the stranger, who stood at a convenient place near the platform, raised the keynote campaign cry and led the march to the platform, grabbed Talmadge, and with some of his supporters, raised him on their shoulders throughout the crowd.

"It is all very easy," said the stranger, "if you know how to do it, and I am trained to do it. I have been ahead of Talmadge for several of his recent speaking engagements and I am the man who does the shoulder trick."

After the speaking, the stranger left for the next engagement where he shoulder trick was pulled off again.

BUSINESS SHOWS UNUSUAL ACTIVITY THROUGHOUT JULY

Cause U. S. Treasury to Predict Smallest Deficit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Production, trade and unemployment rose above seasonal levels in July, the Federal Reserve Board reported tonight in its monthly survey of business and financial conditions.

This optimistic report followed indications in treasury circles that between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 may be slashed from the previous estimate of a $3,000,000,000 deficit for the 1937 fiscal year.

Administration financial leaders expect the deficit this year to be the smallest since the New Deal came into office in 1933. But the government still is spending $3 for every $2 taken in.

Revenues Increase.

Increased revenues, largely through expected gains in collections of personal and corporate income taxes arising from improved business conditions, are the basis for the predictions.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who August 10 wrote President Roosevelt that improved conditions would make "no new taxes" necessary next year, replied today to Governor Alfred M. Landon's attack on the administration's financial and tax policies.

Acid Test Remains.

"The policy being pursued by the United States treasury has met with the approval of the country," he said. "The acid test is the government bond market."

"It was an amplification, the secretary grinned, rubbed his chin, and remarked:

"I took a quick look at the bond market and it is still all right."

Treasury revenues are running about $1,000,000 per day ahead of the last fiscal year, while numerous al-

DAIRYMAN IS HELD IN MILK PRICE WAR

J. C. Peek Surrenders to Police After Accuser
Makes Sworn Statement

An unexpected twist in detective investigation of Atlanta's milk-price "war" came yesterday afternoon, bringing the first concrete clues to the mystery behind the bombings and other acts of terrorism. A widely known Atlanta dairyman came with his attorney to police headquarters, and shortly afterwards was arrested on a blanket charge of disorderly conduct and malicious mischief.

The dairyman is J. C. Peek, 42, of 700 Yorkshire road, N. E., who is identified by the city directory as president of Clover Dale Dairies, Inc. He was accompanied by his attorney, W. Paul Carpenter, and came voluntarily to police station. He posted a $1,000 bond shortly after his arrest.

Statement Links Dairyman.

According to detectives, Peek's identification with acts of terrorism in the milk-price "war" depends largely on a sworn statement from Olon Henson, one of three persons arrested over the week-end on a suspicion of bombing charge, who yesterday identified the dairyman as the man introducing him last week to a man named "Jones," allegedly the man "behind" the notes of warning.

"Jones," police stated, is believed to be a representative of a dairy supply house. He is sought by officers. Henson told police yesterday he has known Peek for "a long time." He said that last week, when Peek introduced him to "Jones," the dairyman said:

"This is Mr. Jones who has a job for you. He's okay. I have nothing to do with it."

Sanguinary Fight Enters 7th Week

Loyalists Have So Heavily Reinforced Mountain Positions, It Is Doubtful They Can Be Dislodged.

By ADOLFO DA ROSA.
(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.)
LISBON (Friday), Aug. 28.—The hard-pressed Spanish government abandoned defensive tactics and sent enthusiastic but green militiamen in attacks against rebel troops in a half dozen sectors today as the civil war entered its seventh week.

Heavy, bloody fighting yesterday ended with both sides claiming advantage but with no decisive result on any front.

Portugal encouraged Europe's hopes for a pact of non-intervention by decreeing an arms embargo against Spain.

But guns and war munitions continue to arrive daily for both sides. Gun-running and smuggling of munitions and food supplies, coupled with the fact the armies are so evenly divided, causes growing conviction that it may take weeks or months before one side or the other weakens and collapses.

The swift blow which the rebels hoped to strike towards Madrid a month ago had not materialized as the war entered its seventh week.

The central government has bolstered its defensive positions on the south slopes of the Guadarrama mountains to such an extent that it is doubtful now if the rebels have enough men, planes, tanks and artillery to break through and march on Madrid.

By sending columns south to harass General Francisco Franco at Cordoba and Granada, the government has prevented him from joining General

Slate Is Announced For Talmadge Rally

THOMSON, Ga., Aug. 27.—Arrangements are being made here for the Talmadge rally of September 2 when Talmadge will address his supporters in McDuffie and surrounding counties.

The speaking will take place at Johnson's Grove, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

This is the first time that there has appeared anything like the announcement of the regular Talmadge slate all down the line. Those in charge in announcing the program of speakers give, in addition to Talmadge himself, his ticket as follows, all of these having accepted invitations to attend:

Charles B. Redwine for governor.
William Lester for attorney general.
J. Ellis Pope for lieutenant governor.
Tom Linder for commissioner of agriculture.
Homer C. Parker for comptroller general.
C. Daniel for treasurer.

Motorcades are being arranged from surrounding counties.

GOLD RECEIPTS SHOW
2 MILLION GAIN IN U. S.

SEATTLE, Aug. 27.—(P)—Gold fever is throbbing anew in men's veins this year.

The United States district assay office figures here today indicated a 1936 increase of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 over 1935 in yellow metal receipts, mostly from Alaska.

Perry S. Myers, weigh clerk, said he had weighed in $10,077,000 worth of gold for Assayer George L. Swarwa since January 1. The total for the fiscal year ending last June 30 was $18,806,000.

Alaska accounted for about $16,000,000 of gold last year.

Most of it comes from dredging and hydraulic methods. There still is much of the crude, hand-labor sluice box mining by individuals but from Garrettsville dredges and high pressure hydraulic developments Alaska's new gold era is being born.

Pope Pius Weakened From Worry
Over Spanish Bloodshed, Warfare

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 27.—(P)—Pope Pius XI was so distressingly weakened tonight from worry over Spanish bloodshed that prelates feared he soon might be unable to walk.

Illness of the holy father, who was 79 years old May 31, was disclosed after preparations were made for an expiatory service in St. Peter's for the death of priests and nuns and the destruction of churches in Spain.

It was planned for the Pope to attend the services assisted by all the cardinals now resident in Rome.

Plans also were made for the Pope to receive Spanish churchmen who fled to Italy for safety. At that time he was to protest against the sacrifices of civil war.

Prelates and physicians have sought to persuade him to conserve his strength, but yesterday a three-hour conversation with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal secretary of state, at Castel Gandolfo concerning the Spanish situation left his holiness little strength to continue other duties.

The Pope's ailment was said by a high prelate to be endocarditis, an inflammation of the heart. A medical examination in June, it was said, reached "satisfactory conclusions" concerning his condition.

His holiness rested at his summer home, however, and sought to gather strength for the expiatory service, which will be similar to one about three years ago protesting against a Russian anti-religious wave.

It will be broadcast over the Vajitslyhrwm station, and Catholics of all the world have been asked to join the ceremony.

Pope Pius, famed for his economic, moral and political announcements of recent years, has been called the "Pope of the Conciliation" because he signed the Lateran Accord with Premier Benito Mussolini making the "prisoner of the Vatican" free for the first time since the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 when Italian troops entered Rome, considered the capital of Christianity, and proclaimed it the capital of Italy.

Pope Pius IX protested what he called usurpation of Catholic rights and refused to leave the Vatican, becoming, as did those who followed him, a "prisoner."

Under a treaty signed in 1929 at the Palace of the Lateran, Pope Pius XI became sovereign in the new state, Vatican City.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE
OPOSED BY GROUP

Patrons' Organization Protests Citizens' Body Formation By System.

Alleging formation of the proposed "citizens' committee" is an attempt to weld into a compact political machine the Parent-Teacher Associations and other non-political bodies interested in the Atlanta school system, J. R. Smith, president of the Patrons of Atlanta Public Schools, yesterday issued a protest against the projected organization.

"The proposed 'citizens' committee,' now under consideration by the board of education," the statement said, "is designed as a political organization to wield the power of the Parent-Teacher Associations and other non-political organizations into a compact political machine."

"This committee is to be appointed by the administration and will act without any authority. Its admitted purpose is to eliminate criticism of the school system. We are opposed to politics within the school department. The people are entitled to the services of the school administration on school matters, but are not interested in its political activities to perpetuate power in itself."

Smith concluded his statement by pointing out that all human agencies are subject to criticism and that the source of the criticism lies, as an inherent right, in the public supporting the schools.

Anti-Lynching Plays Are Awarded Prizes

Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, director of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, announced yesterday the award of anti-lynching play prizes to a North Carolinian and a Texan.

The first prize of $100, she said, was awarded by the association to Walter S. Spearman, of Chapel Hill, N. C., for a play entitled "Country Sunday." Second prize of $50 was awarded to Miss Ann Seymour, of Straus, Texas, for her play, "Lawd, Does You Understand?"

Spearman is a native of South Carolina and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He was formerly a reporter on the Charlotte (N. C.) News, and is now teaching journalism and studying dramatics at the University of North Carolina.

Miss Seymour is a graduate of the Texas State College for Women, and is a teacher of English in the Palestine, Texas, schools.

51 TO RECEIVE DEGREES
AT EMORY UNIVERSITY

1936 Summer School Session Had Largest Enrollment Since 1931.

Fifty-one graduates will receive degrees today as Emory University brings to a close its largest summer school session since 1931. A 5 per cent increase in enrollment over last summer's session was announced by officials.

Formal summer school graduation exercises were discontinued at Emory several years ago, so today the graduates will have only to call by the registrar's office and get their diplomas, officials said.

The following graduates will receive degrees:

Bachelor of business administration, George Kort Wall, of Avondale Estates; bachelor of science, Pierre Charles Herndon Jr., Maurice Rich, of Atlanta, and Edward Barnett Pope, of Washington; bachelor of philosophy, Clarence Henry Calhoun Jr., Edwin Whitehead Canada, Lucille Cobb, Harry Lee Mitcham, of Atlanta, and Ethel Lynne Miller of Decatur.

Bachelor of arts, Marie Belle Cockrell, Joseph Eugene Crawley, R. A. Day Jr., Janie Beall McClure, Joseph Dean McElroy, William Benjamin Smith, James William Starr, of Atlanta; Clarence Eugene Boyd Jr., Dean Winn Roberts, of Decatur; John Thompson Adams Jr., of Tampa, Fla.; Hugh Moss Comer, Robert Sterling Wiggins, of Macon; James Glenn Hutchinson, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; William Arthur Matthews, of Orlando, Fla.; and Millard Lewis Jr., of Swarthmore, Pa.; bachelor of laws, James Carr Grizzard, of Atlanta; Theo Richmond Many Jr., of Edison, and George Watt Smith, of Bradenton, Fla.

Master of science, Laura Whitner Dorsey, Gene McLarty Roberts, of Atlanta; Harold Edmond Wager, Ralph Waldo Wager, of Emory University; Lucy Goss, of Decatur; Idelle Elizabeth Wheeler, of East Point; Ella Cooper Bell, of Lancaster, S. C.; and Rosalie Brown, of Staunton, Va.

ALFONSO IS READY
Ex-King's Plane Awaiting Orders.

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Aug. 27.—(P)—An airplane stood ready tonight "awaiting the king's orders" while former King Alfonso, of Spain, read stacks of mail from his homeland. Observers wondered whether he would make a dash for the civil war scene.

For two weeks the plane had been held at the airfield because the permit of its pilot had expired. Now, however, that technicality has been smoothed out.

Supplementing the arrival of heavy mail, the couriers flew to Innsbruck to consult the former monarch.

One of them was Marquis de Tena, owner of the suppressed monarchist newspaper A. B. C.

KREML WILL DISCUSS TRAFFIC PLAN TODAY

Authority To Tell Details of His Famous Evanston Control Plan.

Atlanta interested in improving traffic conditions here and lowering the number of accidents will hear Lieutenant Frank M. Kreml, nationally known traffic authority, describe his Evanston plan at a luncheon sponsored by the traffic safety committee of the Chamber of Commerce at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Lieutenant Kreml will arrive at the terminal station at 9:35 o'clock this morning and will be met by a welcoming committee composed of city officials, executives and officers of the Chamber of Commerce, and members of the police department.

More than 200 Atlantans had reserved places for the luncheon yesterday. It was announced by Slater Marshall, of the Chamber of Commerce. At least 500 citizens are expected to attend the luncheon, he said.

Club Members to Attend.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Council of the Parent-Teachers Association, the Pilots' Club, Atlanta Advertising Club and the Rotary Club have accepted invitations to attend the luncheon full force, Marshall said. Other clubs have announced that many of their members will attend.

Lawrence B. Tipton, Alabama state director of public safety, arrived in Atlanta yesterday afternoon and will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce at the luncheon. Tipton was director of the first southern traffic officers' school held in July at the University of Alabama. He is a leader in championing the reduction of highway accidents in the south and has on numerous occasions praised the work being done by Lieutenant Kreml, who is known as "Evanston's college boy policeman."

Other guests invited to the luncheon are the members of the city council's safety committee, Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant, Chief George Mathieson, of the Fulton county police; J. T. Dalley, of the DeKalb county police; Eugene Harrington, president of the Chamber of Commerce; General Van Horn Moseley, Congressman Robert Ramspeck and the Fulton county commissioners. All guests are to be introduced.

Lieutenant Kreml will be introduced by Captain Jack Malcom, of the Atlanta traffic patrol. Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the commerce body's safety committee, will preside.

Barbecue Planned.

A barbecue will be given in honor of Lieutenant Kreml at 6 o'clock this afternoon on the Chattahoochee river, near Roswell, by the members of the Atlanta traffic patrol.

Lieutenant Kreml was presented the civic service award by the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce in 1935 in recognition of the work he had done in Evanston. He is the organizer and founder of the bureau of accident prevention of the Evanston police department, the unit which has won for the city of Evanston three national traffic safety prizes, including the grand prize awarded by the National Safety Council in the contest of 1932, 1933 and 1935. Kreml is the co-founder and director of the Northwestern University Traffic Safety Institute and is consultant in the organizing of accident investigation squads in Chicago.

Development of Plan.

Kreml, while working as a part-time policeman on the Evanston police force during his college days, became alarmed at the ever-increasing number of traffic accidents. He thought out a plan by which he believed accidents could be eliminated. One occasion unknowingly chance to arrest the chairman of the police committee, who in the course of the "communi" plan for accident prevention. He was given a chance to put his system into operation. It worked. Cities all over the country are requesting his services now in installing similar systems.

At present Lieutenant Kreml is installing his system at Miami and it is expected that he will install the Evanston system in Atlanta during December. He was the principal professor at the recent University of Alabama southern traffic officers' school.

POULTRY BREEDERS WILL ACCEPT CUP

Spokesman Says Association Honored; Humiliation of Official Ignored.

Officials of the Greater Atlanta Poultry Breeders Association, with F. E. Radensleben, secretary-treasurer, acting as their spokesman, have decided to accept Governor Talmadge's donation of a silver trophy cup to be awarded through the association for the best bird in the Southeastern Fair poultry show held September 29th to October 6th.

The word went forward to the Governor yesterday in a letter in which Radensleben stated: "The Atlanta Constitution in these words:

"An article appearing in one of the local newspapers on August 26th has just come to our attention, and we extremely regret to observe that the wishes of the Greater Atlanta Poultry Breeders Association have been erroneously stated without the knowledge of our executive committee or association at large. We wish to go on record that your kind contributions have been deeply appreciated. We have felt ourselves highly honored by such splendid co-operation from the Governor of our state."

No mention was made in Radensleben's letter of the humiliations to which Mrs. J. A. Borg, vice president of the association, was subjected when she visited the Governor's office to have him donate the trophy this year as he did last year, and which aroused her resentment and induced her to tell her story at the Ed Rivers meeting in the Ansley hotel Monday night and again to a Constitution reporter at her home on Peachtree-Dunwoody road Tuesday night.

Mrs. Borg's description of the scene in the Governor's office was printed in The Constitution. National guardsmen wrested her pocketbook from her arm and rifled its contents and she was forced to sit three hours in the antechamber of the Governor's offices despite her efforts to leave.

FIVE ARE KILLED IN MARYLAND CRASH

One Georgia Negro Dies, Four Hurt as Truck Leaves Highway.

DARLINGTON, Md., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A truck carrying more than a score of potato field workers to their Florida and Georgia homes left the road on a curve in a blinding rain and hurled five persons to death down a 75-foot embankment early today.

Eighteen others were injured, one perhaps fatally, in the crash at the east end of the Conowingo dam across the Susquehanna river.

Among the dead was George D. Hart, white, 37, of Hastings, Fla., driver of the truck, who had taken the negro potato diggers north three months ago to follow the harvest.

The other dead, all negroes, included Sam Grant, Milledgeville, Ga. The negroes, huddled under a heavy tarpaulin in the back of the truck, were laughing and talking as the truck descended a steep grade to the bridge. The machine smashed away a guard railing and tumbled down the embankment quickly.

Eleven of the injured, all negroes, were taken to the Elkton hospital, and six were cared for by the Red Cross at Fort Deposit.

They included James Silas, Quitman, Ga., not expected to recover; Joe Singleton and his wife, Alice, Pelham, Ga.; Robert E. Lee, Dawson, Georgia.

PRIEST DENIES ATTACK IS DIRECTED ON JEWS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A denial that the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin was prompted by anti-Semitic motives in his attacks on "money changers," coupled with a statement that the Detroit radio priest will continue to assail Jewish international bankers, will be carried tomorrow in his publication Social Justice.

Replying to charges by a Jewish magazine (The Detroit Jewish Chronicle) that the priest mentioned only Jewish names in his blasts at "money changers," the article will say that he also has singled "prominent Gentiles, both Catholic and Protestant."

NEW BOND ISSUE.

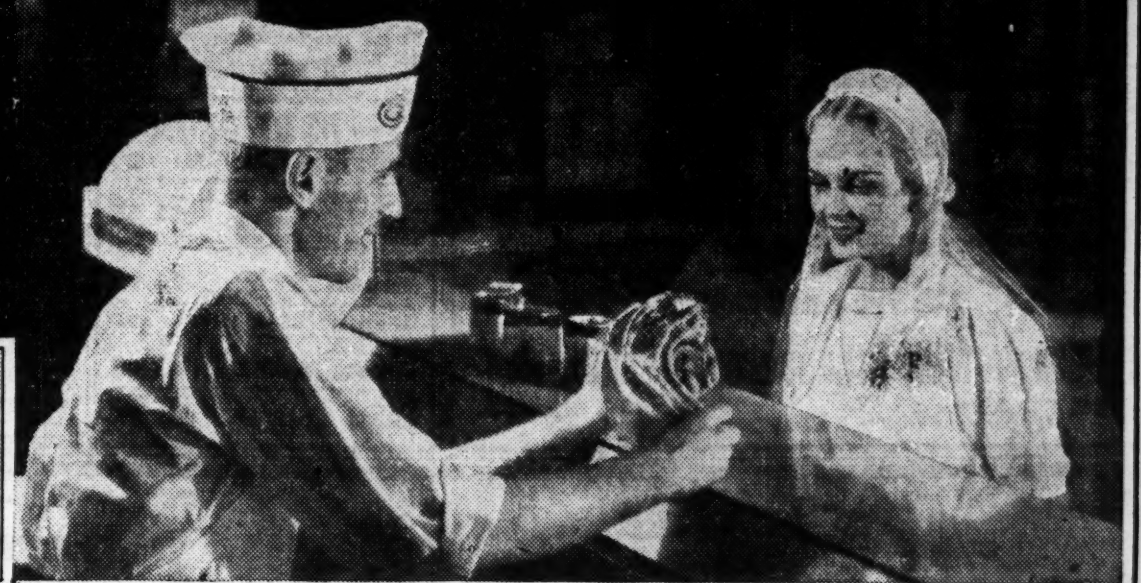

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Los Angeles county flood control district is offering today through a banking syndicate headed by Chase National bank $5,594,000 of 3 1/4 per cent serial bonds, due 1937-1944. The bonds are being offered at prices to yield from .80 per cent to 3.15 per cent.

HIT-RUN DEATH SUSPECT

IS ARRESTED IN MACON

Patrolmen Harry Maddox and Bevo Brooks left last night for Macon to return Richard Brown, negro, wanted by Atlanta police on charges of voluntary manslaughter and larceny of a motorcycle. Brown was arrested and held by Macon police.

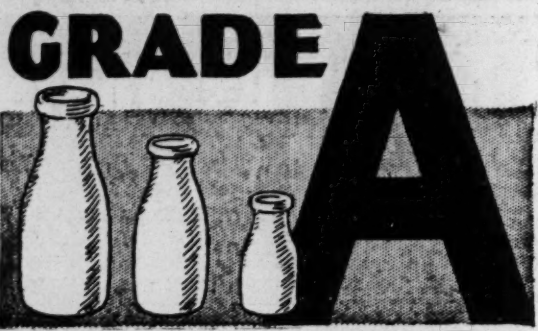

Brown was wanted in connection with the death of Arthur McVey, widely known Atlanta shirt manufacturer, who was killed by a hit-and-run motorcyclist last April.

Patrolmen Maddox and Brooks are assigned to hit-and-run accidents.

TAX RATE CUT URGED

BY DEKALB OFFICIAL

Commissioner Matthews Favors Slash in County Rate to $1.25.

DeKalb county is headed for another reduction in the tax rate if a recommendation by C. A. Matthews, county commissioner, is adopted by the September grand jury, the commissioner said yesterday in announcing he will advocate a reduction from $1.40 per $100 to $1.25.

The new rate will include 10 cents per $100 for school purposes, with the remainder going for regular county expenditures.

If the rate cut recommendation is adopted, it will mark the third tax reduction since Mr. Matthews took office in 1931, when a tax rate of $1.75 prevailed.

Mr. Matthews declared no reduction in county service would result from the tax rate cut. On the other hand, he cited increased expenditures for the juvenile court, police and other departments.

Because of the possibility of a question of the validity of a state levy without an appropriations act, the county tax system has been arranged so levies are not based on a percentage of the state levy.

Taxes dependent on the validity of the state levy have been entirely omitted. Mr. Matthews said, and have been omitted from consideration since the first of the year to prevent confusion over possible litigation in connection with the state rate.

REHEARING OF APPEAL

DENIED JUDGE LUKE

MACON, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A motion for a rehearing of his appeal has been denied former Judge Roscoe Luke, of Thomaston, convicted in United States district court here and sentenced to serve two years in the federal penitentiary.

Announcement of the refusal was made here today by F. Hoyt Davis, district attorney.

Judge Luke's motion for a new trial was overruled by the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans several weeks ago and the same body overruled the motion for a new hearing.

The former Thomaston jurist was convicted last September in the Valdosta division of court on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the Citizens' Building & Loan Company in Thomaston.

Thick English lamb chops planked as the ones shown above are a real treat for any dinner, regardless of time or place, and if men are present, they are sure to make a hit which will not soon be forgotten.

English lamb chops are made from the loin section of lamb, just as are the regular loin lamb chops. They are cut from the double loin; the loin is not split. The vertebrae are removed and the meat shaped into round chops, held in place by skewers.

English lamb chops are always cut thick, but for that matter any chop or steak which is to be broiled is better when cut at least one inch thick. Then it can be broiled until the outside is well browned and the inside still will be tender and juicy.

Planked chops are broiled in the usual manner and then transferred to the heated wooden plank for the vegetables and decorations.

Preheat Oven. To broil chops to perfection, thoroughly preheat the broiling oven with the regulator set at "high." Place the chops on the broiler rack so that there is a distance of 3 inches between top of chops and the flame or heating element. Leave the oven door open. When the chops are nicely browned on top, season them with salt and pepper and turn. By the time the second side is nicely browned, they will be done, so season them again and place on planks. It requires 25 to 30 minutes to broil chops 1-2 to 2 inches thick. In case it is impossible to place the chops 3 inches from heat, simply place them as far away as possible and lower the temperature in inverse proportion to the distance.

Brussels sprouts and Duchess potatoes which have been forced through a pastry tube are used on the planks pictured. Duchess potatoes are mashed potatoes to which egg yolks have been added. The Brussels sprouts are cooked in water before being placed on the plank. These are dotted with butter for seasoning, and the entire plank returned to the oven long enough to slightly brown the potatoes.

Making of Planks. The individual planks are made from wood, usually oak, and must be prepared before using the first time. This treatment is very simple, however. Just rub the planks well with fat, place them in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) and leave for an hour, or until all of the fat has completely penetrated into the wood. Then they are ready for use and can be washed with soap and water just as any other cooking equipment.

To complete this delightful dinner, let us add pineapple-tomato aspic, Parker House rolls, iced tea and to top it off our old favorite, lemon pie.

Pineapple-Tomato Aspic. One cup solid sweetened tomatoes, 1-2 teaspoon dried thyme, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cloves, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup canned pineapple juice, 1-4 teaspoon grated onion, 2 drops tabasco sauce, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne (optional), 1-4 bay leaf, 1-2 tablespoon gelatin.

Simmer the tomatoes with all of the seasonings and about 1-4 cup water for about 20 minutes, or until the tomatoes are very soft. Then strain through a fine sieve, pressing through as much of the pulp as possible.

While this is cooking soak the gelatin in 1-4 cup of the pineapple juice, over this pour the hot tomato juice, and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add remainder of pineapple juice. Rinse 4 individual molds in cold water, and pour in the gelatin mixture, place in refrigerator and allow to harden. When ready to serve turn out on lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise.

Parker House Rolls. One cupful of milk, 1-2 cake of compressed yeast, 2 tablespoonsful of butter, 1 teaspoonful of salt, 2 tablespoonsful of sugar, 3 to 4 cups of bread flour.

Put the sugar, shortening and salt into a large mixing bowl or a bread mixer, and pour over them the scalding milk. Let stand until lukewarm. In the meantime dissolve the yeast in 1-2 cupful of warm water, and when it is ready, use milk and allow to harden. When ready to serve turn out on lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise.

COMMISSION WILL SET

TAX RATE WEDNESDAY

1936 Levy Expected to Maintain 1935 Figure of $1.10.

The 1936 tax levy will be set by the Fulton county commission at the regular meeting Wednesday, it was announced yesterday.

Specific amounts of the $1 per $100 for certain purposes are included in the total, and it appeared probable that some of these will be changed, but the total amount will remain the same.

The sum brought in by this taxation last year was approximately $3,432,250, of which $276,666 was for educational purposes and $2,755,584 was for county purposes, such as operating the public works department, the police department, pay of jurors, expenses of county health department, maintain and support prisoners, to build and repair public buildings and roads, and for other lawful purposes.

In addition to the tax levied by participation in the federal aid projects has caused Fulton to have to purchase additional machinery and materials. This has necessitated any possible reduction in the tax levy for this year, it was said.

It collects this tax from the tax assessments made by the board of tax assessors and also collects for the state government 40 cents on each $100 of taxable property. The total paid in by the taxpayer is $1.50 on the hundred, but the county receives only $1.10 of this amount.

Setting the tax rate is expected to be the only important matter considered by the commissioners at the September meeting.

SCHOOLS IN DECATUR
OPEN SEPTEMBER 14Superintendent Ferguson Gives Instruction for Registration of Pupils.

Registration for all first grade and new students in the Decatur schools will begin Tuesday, September 8, at 8:30 a. m. Superintendent Ferguson, announced yesterday. No registration is required for old students, he said. Schools will open September 14.

First grade students will be given entrance tickets upon presentation of birth certificates and successful vaccination certificates, Ferguson said. New students for other grades must present evidence of successful vaccinations, he said. Under the ruling of the board of education a child entering the first grade must be six years of age prior to October 14.

"All high school students are to be classified at their respective schools," Ferguson announced. "Students entering the following classes are to report as follows: Seniors, Tuesday, September 8; Juniors, Wednesday, September 9; Sophomores, Thursday, September 10; Freshmen, Friday, September 11. These students will report between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock or between 1 and 4:30 o'clock."

The opening of the Clairmont school, now under construction, may be deferred several days after the other schools open, he said, but unless patrons are notified otherwise the school will also open September 14.

"All children from the Clairmont district entering the seventh grade will report this year to their former school, Ponce de Leon or Glenwood schools, it having been an established policy of the board to allow children who have finished the sixth grade in any particular school to have the privilege of graduating from that school," the superintendent stated. "Due to this, there will be no seventh grade at the Clairmont school this year."

LONDON STOCKS FIRM.
LONDON, Aug. 27.—(P)—Stock prices were firm today, practically all action pushing ahead to higher prices. Radio and Television were firm together with distilling, steel, rayon and engineering shares. Mining stocks and gold-edged securities scored advances and the oil and rubber groups were also well supported at higher prices. Foreign bonds held steady while transatlantic issues moved irregularly.

MY COOKERY

By MISS RUTH CHAMBERS.

Question: What kind of meat do you buy for a crown roast of pork?

Answer: The crown roast of pork is cut from the loin.
Question: I have no broiler. How shall I cook a steak?
Answer: Panbroiling—that is, cooking in a hot, uncovered frying pan, pouring off the fat as it accumulates—may be substituted for broiling. Steaks, chops or any other cuts suitable for broiling may be panbroiled.

In panbroiling steaks or lamb chops have a heavy fryingpan very hot. Brown the steak on both sides, then reduce the temperature. The time required for panbroiling is the same as for broiling.

Planked Dishes.
Question: Please explain the planks used in recipes?
Answer: A planked meat dish is most attractive in appearance and is not so difficult to prepare as it appears. Planking is simply a type of service, rather than a method of cooking. Certain cuts of meat. The cookery method used is broiling. It need not be an expensive dish, as proved by the "pennet" porthouse, made with ground meat.

For this and other planked dishes, you may use a heat-proof glass platter. Or you may want to own one of the oak planks which are made especially for this purpose. According to popular idea the wood imparts a pleasant tang to the meat and vegetables.

Cuts to Use.
Tender cuts of meat, suitable for broiling or panbroiling, such as porterhouse and sirloin steaks, are best adapted for planking. Lamb chops may be used and also ground meat. Pork and veal chops, which require long, slow cooking, are not often used, but they might be served as the center of a planked dish if they are almost completely cooked beforehand. Broiled ham may be planked.

The general method of planking is to partially cook the meat and vegetables before arranging them on a plank. The meat is cooked almost to the desired degree of doneness. Broil the steak, chops or shaped ground meat as usual, then transfer to the center of the plank, which has been heated, and arrange the vegetables, also partially cooked, around it.

To Serve With Planked Meat.
Duchess potatoes—that is, mashed potatoes to which beaten egg yolks have been added—are usually piped with a pastry tube around the edge of the plank. To one quart of rice potatoes, add four beaten egg yolks, salt and pepper to season and enough milk to give it the right consistency for putting through the pastry tube.

Sweet potatoes may be used for a border with ham or lamb chops. Marshmallows placed at intervals about this border add to the flavor and fine appearance of the dish. Sliced pineapple goes well with lamb or ham. With steak, stuffed tomatoes, stuffed onions, green string beans, cauliflower, flowerets, carrots, diced or cut in fancy shapes are suggestions, depending on your taste, convenience and season of the year. For a distinctive dish, serve bananas, cut in half and rolled in melted butter and browned on the plank.

When the meat and vegetables are arranged to your satisfaction, place the dish in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) long enough to heat thoroughly to complete the cooking and to give all a nicely browned appearance. Usually about 15 minutes is required for this.

ANDREWS PRAISES
BOYKIN'S RECORDGangsters and Racketeers Fear Present Solicitor General, Says Assistant.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin is safe and dependable and has proved it in years of valuable experience as a public servant, E. E. Andrews, assistant solicitor general, declared last night in an address delivered in Boykin's interest at the Tenth Street school.

"Protection of life and property can only be secured by the people through the constant and vigorous efforts of an able solicitor general," Andrews stated.

"The gangster and racketeer will never operate in this county as long as John A. Boykin is your solicitor general. He has waged an unrelenting fight against crime and has striven unceasingly to make this county a clean and wholesome place in which to live. His long experience in his war on the underworld has made him one of the ablest solicitor generals in the country."

"The good and substantial people of Fulton county will re-elect him September 9 because his record of being safe and dependable is known to all."

Major J. Walter LeCraw, also an assistant solicitor general, asserted criminals of the type which once had Chicago in their grip are afraid to come into Fulton county to prey upon the residents. He said he once heard a racketeer tell another in Miami that he would "never come to Atlanta so long as John A. Boykin remains in the courthouse."

LeCraw also pointed out that when gambling establishments are built to attract Atlantans contrary to law, "they select another county to do it."

HIGHWAY AUTO DEATHS
MAY SET NEW RECORD

July Third Successive Month
Above '35 Toll; 18,560 in 7 Months.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(P)—A warning that the nation was headed for another all-time "record of slaughter" on its highways was sounded today by the National Safety Council as it released figures showing July to be the third successive month with more fatalities than corresponding periods last year.

There were 3,180 traffic deaths last month, 3 per cent more than the 3,090 recorded for July, 1935.

July's total brought the aggregate for the seven months of the year to 18,560. This was only 2 per cent under the aggregate of 18,980 for the same period in 1935, a year in which motor deaths reached an all-time high mark of 37,000.

"The trend is alarming," commented W. H. Cameron, managing director of the council, "because we have yet to pass through those months which in former years produced the largest number of traffic accident deaths."

"In 1935 the first six months recorded 15,880 traffic fatalities while in the last six 21,110 such deaths were suffered."

"If the upward trend during the months prior to August be curbed sharply in the remaining months of the year, we can prepare ourselves to read another all-time record of slaughter on our streets and highways when 1936 has become history."

It was to avert such an eventuality the council last year inaugurated a five-year campaign to reduce traffic deaths by 35 per cent.

Cameron said an increased traffic volume probably contributed to the mounting figures for 1936. He said that gasoline consumption was 9 per cent above 1935's in the first five months of this year.

"Assuming the same percentage advance for seven months, the death rate per 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed would have been 17.4 compared to 19.4 for 1935, a decline of 10 per cent," he calculated.

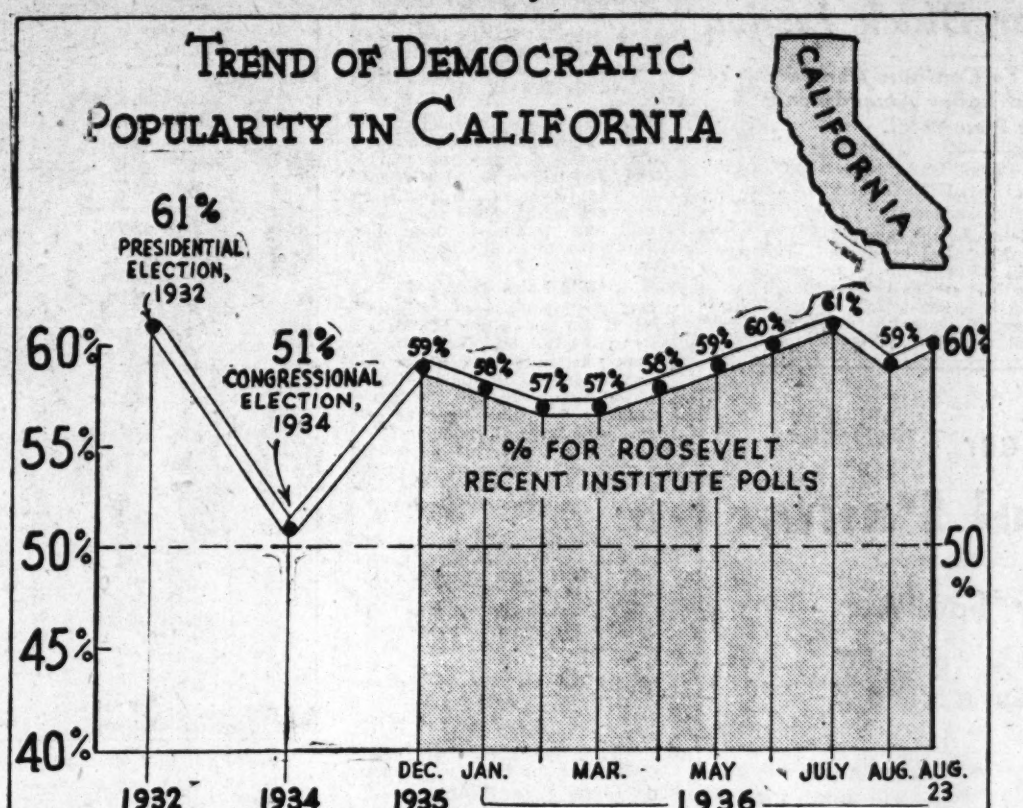

Reversing a trend of the earlier part of the year, cities which had led rural areas in reducing fatalities, reported an increase of 11 per cent during July.

Pueblo, Col., with a population of 5,000, was the largest city to complete the first seven months without a traffic death. For July Birmingham, Ala., was the largest with a similar showing.

Poll Shows California Sixty Per Cent for Roosevelt

The above graph shows the trend of the Democratic majority in California in recent polls conducted by the Institute of Public Opinion.

California Will Go Democratic In November, Institute Poll Shows

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Senator McAdoo's prediction that California will go Democratic next November is borne out at present by polls of the Institute of Public Opinion, but Roosevelt's lead at the moment is less than 600,000 votes which the California senator claims he will receive.

The latest Institute poll of California gives Roosevelt 60 per cent of the major party vote, to Landon's 40 per cent. In terms of actual votes, the President's majority is calculated at 476,500, or slightly more than the 476,255 he received in the 1932 election.

The present figure allows for a 10 per cent increase in California's voting population during the four years.

Much of the President's strength in California is concentrated in its two largest cities—San Francisco and Los Angeles. In San Francisco he leads with 64 per cent of the major party vote today, and in Los Angeles county he polls two votes to Landon's one.

According to Senator McAdoo, California is the "strongest Democratic state in the Union." The poll shows that while this may be true in terms of actual number of votes many southern states have a higher percentage of Democratic votes.

In Mississippi, for example, the President polls over 90 per cent, although, of course, the voting population is only about one-twentieth as large as California's. In South Carolina Roosevelt polls 88 per cent today, and in Alabama 80 per cent.

Democrats Lead on Coast.
California is indisputably the strongest Democratic state on the Pacific coast, however, according to the poll.

The trend in the other coast states, Washington and Oregon, has been toward Landon. In Oregon the President has lost six points and in Washington five points since Landon was nominated in June. Both these states, however, still give Roosevelt a majority.

The trend of Democratic sentiment in recent Institute polls in Oregon and Washington has been as follows:

State	Year	%
Oregon	January, 1936	55%
	February	57%
	March	58%
	April	57%
	May	58%
Washington	June	59%
	July	55%
	August 9	55%
	August 23	53%
	Points change	—6

The swing in Oregon coincides with the statement of John D. M. Hamilton, Republican campaign manager, on August 11 that Oregon was in the best shape for the Landon-Knox ticket of all the north-western states.

SCHOOL TO OPEN.
CORNELLIA, Ga., Aug. 27.—The Cornellia public school will open August 31 for the fall term. Professor A. L. Brewer announced today.

COUNTY TO CHECK
USE OF GAS, OILCommittee Is Named for Development of System Governing Cars Use.

A system to check all gas and oil distributed at county filling stations is to be worked out by a committee appointed yesterday by Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the Fulton commission, at a meeting at Bellwood camp of all wardens, deputy wardens and record clerks.

Dr. Adams, Commissioners George F. Longino, Ed L. Almond and J. A. Ragsdale, and Jesse S. Jenkins, chairman of a special grand jury committee which investigated charges of misuse of county-owned cars by county employees, made talks before the gathering.

Frank R. Fling, clerk of the commission; Frank Evans, building superintendent; John Still and T. E. Roberts were named on the committee to devise a checking system.

Jenkins declared the grand jury found that all county employees had told them the truth in the investigation and that no cases of deliberate misuse of cars was discovered. The commissioners asked all county employees to aid in cutting the gas and oil bill and to bring about the reforms recommended by the grand jury.

The current grand jury will continue in office through September 4 and the new jury will be sworn in the following week.

The September-October grand jury is one of the two each year that is required by law to investigate county affairs.

JAPAN DENIES PLANS
FOR RED BUFFER STATECommander Declares Tokyo Has No Ambitions in Inner Mongolia.

PEIPING, Aug. 27.—(P)—Lieutenant General Seishiro Itagaki Japanese supreme military commander of Manchouquo, said tonight the Japanese army "does not dream of action and has no aims" in Inner Mongolia.

The general outlined the Japanese stand on Inner Mongolia, adjacent to Soviet-supported Outer Mongolia and Outer Mongolia and Japanese-sponsored Manchouquo, as he passed through Peiping by airplane from an investigation in Suiyuan province. There, recent disorders resulted in reports that Japanese sent troops into Chahar and Suiyuan provinces preparatory to occupying Inner Mongolia.

General Itagaki, head of Japan's formidable war machine on the Asiatic mainland, denied Japanese troops had entered the two Chinese provinces.

He added: "Inner Mongolia and Manchouquo are neighbors; therefore, disturbances in the latter areas concern us and require disposal; but we do not contemplate establishment of a buffer zone below the Sovietized Outer Mongolia."

The general declared the populace of Suiyuan and Chahar was "restless," and the country, he said, was "teeming with unsatisfactory rumors." (The so-called buffer states of Outer Mongolia and Manchouquo are considered controlled by Soviet Russia and Japan as military necessities.)

(Clashes between border guards have been frequent between those two sections and along the line between Siberia and Manchouquo.)

It has been reported that the Japanese regard favorably the establishment of a regime in Inner Mongolia, to the south of Outer Mongolia, sympathetic to Japan.

Meanwhile, the Sino-Japanese incident at Chengtu in Szechuan province reached a peak with the execution of two alleged leaders of a mob which Monday killed two Japanese and wounded two others, it was reported by Chinese sources in Shanghai.

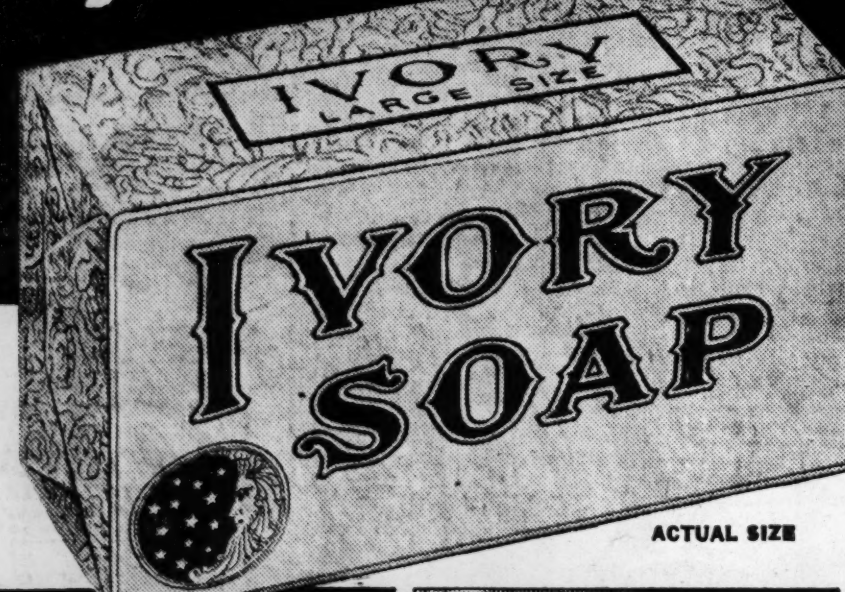

The riot started when Chinese protested the reopening of the Japanese consulate.

From Tientsin a dispatch declared a Japanese crowd attempted to prevent Chinese customs officials from confiscating 2,000 bags of smuggled sugar and scuffled with police before the shop from which the sugar was removed.

No casualties were reported in Tientsin, but it was said in the Chengtu rioting six police were killed and five of the mob died later Monday.

American Bar Declines To Probe Mooney Trial or Black Legion

Bitter Fight Precedes Decision To Continue Committee To Fight Ratification of Child Labor Amendment; No Action on New Deal.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—(P)—The American Bar Association rejected by overwhelming votes today resolutions calling for investigations of the Billings-Mooney case, the Black Legion and various labor disputes and voted to continue in office its special committee created to oppose ratification of the child labor amendment. The assembly of the association of the child labor amendment. The committee's recommendation that it be continued for the coming year to further its activities against ratification was adopted, 233 to 100, despite a battle to discharge the committee, led by Isidore Ostroff, of Philadelphia, and Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis.

Ostroff stated the amendment was approved in letters from both President Roosevelt and Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee. The report of the committee, which urged defeat of the amendment, he said was "lacking in understanding of the social implications of child labor."

Child Labor Debate.

Hay, in an impassioned address, declared "I am opposed to the association entering the field of general government policy. In regard to the child labor amendment, discriminate as we may, we cannot wipe out the impression among the public that the association is in favor of child labor."

Speaking in support of the committee's report, Chairman James A. Simpson, of Alabama, asserted the issue was the "protection of the constitution."

Comparing the child labor amendment with the prohibition amendment, he said: "The 18th amendment was outlawed because people resented sumptuary legislation. It is our duty to protect the constitution against a second invasion as monstrous as the 18th."

Earlier the assembly of the association rejected resolutions calling for an investigation of alleged abuses in the prosecution of Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, now serving life sentences for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

A resolution calling for an amendment to the United States constitution to permit congress to enact social security laws went down to an overwhelming defeat.

A spirited debate developed over a proposal to ask the Works Progress Administration to aid needy lawyers by financing an analysis of the common law by the American Law Institute or other projects. The proposal met disapproval after Ira Jewell Williams and W. W. Montgomery, of Philadelphia, expressed the fear the resolution might be construed as voicing approval of WPA activities.

Favor Food Bill.

Among the resolutions adopted was one reaffirming approval of the canon of ethics decrying political activities by judges.

The assembly accepted the report of the committee on commerce, passing resolutions favoring passage of the revised food and drug act, with certain reservations; passage of a uniform sales act, regulation of competing terms of transportation by the same governmental agency, and approving the principle of water carrier regulation set forth in a recent bill before the senate.

The house of delegates at its second meeting approved affiliation with the Union Internationale des Avocats.

During consideration of the Wagner bill to restrict appearance before federal commissions to members of the bar, John W. Davis, of New York, speaking in opposition, said the association should avoid all appearance of attempting to create a monopoly for its members.

Frederick H. Stinchfield, of Minneapolis, was nominated for president to succeed William I. Ransom, of New York, who was not a candidate. John H. Voorhees, of Sioux City, S. D., was renominated as treasurer. George M. Morris, of Washington, D. C., received the nomination as chairman of the house of delegates, and Harry S. Knight, of Pennsylvania, as secretary.

Members named for the new board of governors, in addition to six held over from the old executive committee, included Louis Wyman, of Manchester, N. H.; Walter S. Fenton, of Rutland, Vt.; Henry S. Ballard, of Columbus, Ohio, and Robert Stone, of

No rain is in sight and farmers in this region are beginning to worry over a new threat of drought. The last heavy rain was on August 10. The last actual rain was a fall of about half an inch on August 15.

High temperatures continue in the middle west and the climb toward the upper nineties is prevalent throughout Georgia.

A whopping uninvited guest, clad in shorts, red paint and an Indian head-dress, turned the state American Legion convention banquet into a bedlam here tonight, after he had scattered nearly two bushels of fresh chicken feathers over a score or more of the diners.

QUINTS GIVE FATHER GIFTS ON BIRTHDAY

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 27.—(P)—Papa Oliva Dionne, the quintuplets' father, celebrated his 32d birthday today and received a gift from his elder children.

The Dionne youngsters who could write have been signing autographs at their father's refreshment stand across the street from the Dafeo hospital, home of the quintuplets, and summer tourists slipped coins into their hands. The kiddies today gave Papa Dionne their savings.

The slight little man, who achieved the shock of his life more than two years ago when Mamma Dionne presented him with the five little girls, also was given a pink-and-white cake marked "happy birthday." Employees at the souvenir stand gave him a shaving set.

PORTUGAL DECREES WAR ARMS EMBARGO

Emilio Mola in a nut-cracker offensive against the capital. Insurgents captured Tineo, strategic town on the main highway through Galicia today after an attack beginning at dawn. The capture was considered important to mopping up operations around Oviedo.

Rebel Positions Bombarded. Loyal artillery today bombarded rebel positions in Leon Pass and near the town of Guadarrama, aided by bombing planes. These bombardments have seriously damaged roads of the region, particularly to Escorial and Navalperal.

France's African column, on a forced march toward Toledo to relieve insurgents besieged there in Alcazar fortress, continued eastward, capturing two more towns, Barcarota and Aschorel. This column has arrived outside Navalperal de la Mata.

The positions of main loyalist and rebel forces remained unchanged with neither side able to claim strategic or tactical advantages over the positions obtained during six weeks of hostilities.

The Portuguese decree prohibits direct or indirect exportation or re-exportation from Portugal of arms, war material or airplanes to Spain or Spanish colonies. The decree becomes effective immediately and follows the general line of similar embargoes proclaimed by Germany and Great Britain.

Loyalist naval forces shelled Palma. Bitter fighting was raging at Teruel, Zaragoza and Huesca, Loyalist artillery destroyed the rebel radio station at Oviedo.

Radio Seville: General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the insurgent garrison at Seville, broadcast that he shall send the word "pity from the dictionary." He announced he had just ordered that five members of Marxist families be shot for every rebel relative executed by government forces "who persist in imprisoning the members of families of aviators and naval officers who are on duty in the cities we occupy."

Radio Cordoba: Heavy fighting rebel forces dispersed loyalists attacking Cordoba, inflicting heavy losses and capturing much booty.

Bomb Madrid. Radio Cadiz: Rebel airplanes dropped 100-pound bombs on the Madrid bombing on August 25, destroying much anti-air transport concentrated there. Near 150 enemy airplanes and 300 soldiers and officers were assassinated in Madrid because they were suspected of sympathizing with the rebels.

Radio Club Lisbon: Two loyalist airplanes bombed Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, but were driven off by rebel anti-aircraft guns.

Radio Burgos: The insurgent provisional government said that rebel troops annihilated a column of 6,000 loyalists on the Aragon front.

Radio Tetuan: Rebel headquarters at Burgos said rebels captured Malaga, Loyalist naval base on the Mediterranean, where fighting reportedly was raging in the streets. Radio Coruna, also a rebel station, added that before entering Malaga insurgents surrounded the city. More than 1,000 civil guards at Malaga joined the rebel forces. Radio Coruna said that a column of Galician Fascists expected to reach Oviedo and raise the siege against the garrison there shortly.

O Seculo, Lisbon newspaper, reported from Cordoba that rebel Fascists captured Palma Del Rio near Cordoba.

Loyal Submarine Strikes. In London the Exchange Telegraph Agency reported that a loyal submarine sank two rebel steamers near Huelva. Their names were not divulged. Exchange Telegraph also reported from Gibraltar that the Spanish Loyalist cruiser Miguel de Cervantes steamed eastward through the Straits of Gibraltar, firing a number of rounds at Casero Point, on the Spanish mainland across the Bay of Gibraltar from the British fortress.

United Press dispatches from Gibraltar said rebel commandos at La Linea, nearest Spanish point to Gibraltar, commandeered and shipped by motor truck to Seville all available fruit and vegetables in the district. The action denied Gibraltar of its sin and agreed upon by France, Russia and Italy.

Portugal agreed to maintain the embargo so long as the governments of France, Germany, Britain, Italy and Russia do likewise. Any violation of the embargo by any of the countries named would cause Portugal to suspend her decree.

Capitals Approached. France and Britain, meanwhile, approached 18 European governments, virtually all of which have so far refused making their planned embargoes effective, with a request that they put them into force at once.

The capitals approached by Paris and London were Rome, Lisbon, The Hague, Brussels, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest, Sofia, Ankara, Athens, Warsaw, Prague, Riga, Stockholm, Helsinki, Oslo and Copenhagen. Until the Lisbon decree of today, only Britain, France, Germany and Russia were already applying their embargoes.

France proposed the establishment of a diplomatic general staff in London to supervise the nonintervention pact.

Britain assented, and informed Paris she would be "delighted" to have an official committee sit in London to collate measures for the enforcement of embargoes against Spain and to deal with any further proposals regarding extension or operation of nonintervention.

Continued ruthlessness was described in assertions emanating from both sides in the war.

Radio Broadcasts.

Loyalist radio broadcasts included: Radio Madrid: Popular front militia columns from Valencia advanced to within five miles of Teruel, the besieged rebel city at Palma, Majorca, radioed to their supreme commander, General Francisco Franco, that their morale was low and that unless requested reinforcements were received they would be forced to surrender. Captain Bayo, commanding Catalan expeditionary forces assigned to subdue rebels in the Balearics, made new advances.

Loyalist naval forces shelled Palma. Bitter fighting was raging at Teruel, Zaragoza and Huesca, Loyalist artillery destroyed the rebel radio station at Oviedo.

Radio Seville: General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the insurgent garrison at Seville, broadcast that he shall send the word "pity from the dictionary." United Press dispatches from Gibraltar said rebel commandos at La Linea, nearest Spanish point to Gibraltar, commandeered and shipped by motor truck to Seville all available fruit and vegetables in the district. The action denied Gibraltar of its normal supply of fresh fruit and vegetables.

In London the foreign office published a telegram from Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain, who is now at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish frontier, announcing Britain's readiness to participate in an appeal to both sides in Spain to alleviate the war's suffering.

United Press dispatches from Gibraltar reported arrival there of the U. S. S. Oklahoma with refugees from Spanish ports. The rebel radio at Seville said loyalist planes bombed a hospital at Jaca despite the fact it was marked clearly with red crosses. Seville threatened that if such air raids were repeated all wounded loyalists would be shot.

The rebel radio at Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, asserted the two government airplanes deserted the Getafe airfield at Madrid and joined rebels at Logrono. A Catalan column attacking Cordoba was defeating, leaving 140 dead on the field of battle.

ICKES TERMS HEARST

given in the Illinois courts last July first by George F. Harding, the newly elected Republican national committee chairman, who said that he called the "relationship existing between Governor Landon and Mr. Hearst."

Certified Copies.

Certified copies of the transcript were distributed to newspapermen.

"The secretary said a memorandum presented in the court case as from Hearst to Harding, read: 'I was very much impressed by what you had to say about Governor Landon not making too many speeches. If you will write me to the effect expressing your views as frankly as you did when you were talking I will, with your permission, send the letter to Governor Landon. It co-operates with and supports what I have already told the governor, and I feel that such views coming from such an important man as yourself would have a great and valuable influence.'

"I think the governor naturally feels himself but the average politician around him is continually urging him to get out and talk. Talk is the method of the average politician, but as you very truly said, this is a campaign which speech making might do more harm than good."

"At present the Democrats have nothing to criticize Governor Landon about. You can see that in their attempt to criticize him. Too many speeches might give the Democrats their eagerly wanted opportunity. Others try to combat or at least try to offset the influence of those political speakers who are continually demanding more speeches."

Claims Issues Evaded.

On this, Ickes commented, "if you want to get into communication with the Republican candidate for governor, the surest way is through Mr. Hearst."

Taking "Hearst over topeka" as his theme, Ickes led into it by saying Landon had evaded issues in the recent eastern trip "except for his promise last night at Buffalo, if elected, to reduce the taxes on corporation surpluses."

"He may choose to ignore the promise that he made in his speech of acceptance to discuss the problems of government in detail," he said, "but he may do these things with respect to other important questions of the day, but the Hearst issue cannot be evaded."

Attributing Hearst antagonism to the New Deal to curtailment of "certain special privileges," such as filing tax returns in a way that reduced the assessments, the interior secretary said the publisher had set out deliberately to "build up" Landon for the Republican nomination.

In the process, he added, Landon "gradually discarded every conviction that would link him with the progressive movement of the country on the New Deal."

Landon's Address Scored.

Turning to the Republican nominee's recent speech near his Pennsylvania birthplace, Ickes quoted the assertion that the campaign issue is "between the pig in the poke policies of the present administration and the traditional American institutions." He contended that the "pig in the poke" phrase applied to Landon and not Roosevelt, "whose policies have been frankly discussed to the country as they developed."

"He and his partisans," he said of Landon, "are asking the country to buy a pig in a poke. In other words, to elect a candidate who has no record or experience on national questions, who is distinguished for what he does not say about the issues of the campaign, who carefully refrains from saying anything that might mean something, who, if he knows anything about the business of the federal government, keeps that knowledge strictly to himself."

Knox-Hearst Relations.

Ickes said Colonel Frank Knox, who was formerly associated with Hearst in business, had given Harding introduction to Hearst for a meeting in late June. He described Harding as a one-time "political crony of William Hale Thompson" who "wanted to do a good deed for the Chicago Tribune's candidate for governor of his state, Mr. Caryl Chessman."

Brooks was said to have accompanied Harding on the trip west, from which the Hearst memorandum resulted. It was included in depositions about the case between Harding and Adelle Clark Harding, the nature of which Ickes did not disclose. The only bearing it had on the case, evidently, was in explanation of why Harding had missed an earlier hearing.

Ickes quoted Harding as saying: "I have since the written Mr. Hearst my views as to how the campaign should be carried on, and sent them to him, and it is probably in Governor Landon's hands by now."

"This sworn testimony, based upon documentary evidence, of a leading Republican politician of Illinois, Ickes proceeded, 'relieves both Governor Landon and Colonel Knox of any necessity of admissions that might be embarrassing to them relative to the close identity of Mr. Hearst with their campaign.'

"The record is abundantly clear: If you want to get to Mr. Hearst, the colored man will supply you with a letter, you will find open sesame wherever Mr. Hearst may be. And if you want to get into communication with the Republican candidate for president, the surest way is through Mr. Hearst."

"Let us turn back again for a minute to the written communication from Mr. Hearst to Mr. Harding. Note this significant sentence: 'I (what you say about Governor Landon making too many speeches) co-operates with and supports what I have already told the Governor. . . . The boss of the Republican party had already communicated his views to his candidate. Mr. Hearst is even more intimate terms with the candidate that he can even venture, as this letter shows, to express his opinion as to what he believes the Governor feels. Probably his opinion as to Governor Landon's views is a pretty shrewd one at that."

"This illuminating record makes clear another point that has puzzled those who have been astonished at the sudden taciturnity of the friendly and ordinarily expressive Governor Landon. Mr. Hearst early in the game had cautioned him against talking too much and a word of caution from that source was all that Governor Landon needed."

Unctuous Inanities.

"While there is no written evidence to prove that Mr. Hearst also has told Governor Landon that he should say as little as possible and then only in unctuous inanities on those occasions when he could not avoid making speeches, who can doubt that he has done so? How otherwise explain the Republican candidate's elocutionary efforts? Has any aspirant for the high office of chief executive ever said so little about his own listening to go?"

"He may 'condemn' in conventional fashion, he may 'view with alarm,' but this seems to be the limit beyond which he is not permitted to go. If he is true, who, except William Randolph Hearst, can be the Seventh?"

"However, no one yet has puffed his way into the White House and the precedent will be broken in this year of grace. The American people want as their President a man of conviction, of courage, of capacity for leadership—a man who stands on his own feet and is no man's man but his own."

"I venture to say that there are those high in Republican circles who wish that Mr. Hearst had a stypic effect upon the vocal organs of John D. M. Hamilton equal to that which Landon has upon those of Governor Landon."

Regarding Free Press.

"Another significant aspect of the national campaign, in addition to the pregnant taciturnity of Mr. Hearst and Colonel Knox upon this important Hearst issue, is the almost equally impenetrable silence of a certain part of the American press with reference to it. It would almost seem that to some the cherished right of freedom of press, about which Mr. Hearst and Colonel McCormick have become so excited when there is no occasion for it, is often merely freedom to distort news and to suppress news."

"It might not be unreasonable to affirm that a section of the American press, to the degree to which it is biased in the support of Mr. Hearst, not only as its political, but as its intellectual and ethical leader. He is the man who may, it is noteworthy that what in other circumstances would be regarded as important news cannot break into the columns of the newspapers which, today, like the Republican party, have surrendered their judgment and their conscience to William Randolph Hearst."

Governor Landon already has learned that one way to avoid the discussion of the issues that he seems afraid to approach is to seize upon a high-sounding sentiment and other changes upon it. The farm question, the labor question, the question of social security, relief, peace and many other burning issues may be at right in their way but the Republican candidate has a more important matter to discuss.

"Speaking of the preconcerted situation Ickes led into it by saying 'the relationship between Mr. Hearst and Governor Landon.'"

"Everyone knows," he said, "that it was the result of a carefully planned Hearst building move it possible for the pleasant gentleman who is governor of Kansas to appear upon the national stage in the character of a presidential candidate."

Why Hearst Interested.

"Mr. Hearst, possessor of one of the greatest fortunes in the United States, had been denied certain special privileges by the present administration, such as that of filing consolidated income tax returns for his various corporations and interests. He had been permitted to do this under preceding administrations, with the result that he had been paying into the United States treasury much less than he would have paid if he had been taxed upon a fair and equitable basis as compared with less prosperous citizens."

"Enraged at treatment that denied him an unfair privilege that he had come to regard as a vested right, he simply had to find a candidate to run on the Republican ticket against President Roosevelt."

Asserting the Republican party was "surprisingly shy of men who measured up to presidential stature," Ickes said Hearst "proceeded to gear up his great publicity machine to make a candidate."

"Mr. Hearst and his fellowwise men from the east" went to Topeka to look Landon over, he added, "and found him good. Whereupon Mr. Hearst let it be known to the world that he had discovered a veritable political prodigy, a nugget of great value, a simple but rugged soul, whom he proceeded to offer, with his approval, to the Republican party as its candidate for president."

Incubated Candidate.

"The elaborate and far-flung Hearst publicity machine at once was thrown into high gear, the while Governor Landon, who theretofore had been nothing loath to express frankly his opinions upon public questions, suddenly became as uncommunicative as the Sphinx. Apparently a Hearst silence had been applied to him. When he did make an oracular utterance it was in ambiguous phraseology, intended, if possible, to satisfy both the progressive west and reactionary Wall Street. During this process of being incubated as a candidate, Governor Landon gradually discarded every conviction that would link him with the progressive movement of the country or the New Deal of President Roosevelt.

Until the time of the Hearst visit, Ickes said, "Governor Landon was an ardent New Dealer." He said the Kansas had "applauded practically every act of the Roosevelt administration," and named the AAA and NRA as that connection.

Turning to the period after Landon's nomination, Ickes said: "It soon became clear the American people would not elect a man as their President merely because he was willing to pose for newspaper photographers while casting flies for trout in Colorado streams or with a napkin tucked down his shirt collar, or while playfully snow-balling newspaper correspondents."

Unfortunate Acceptance.

"It was unfortunate for Mr. Hearst that Candidate Landon had to break the silence that had been impressed upon him. But there was no way of sidestepping a speech of acceptance. However, every effort was made to prepare the candidate for this ordeal. The effect on the American public of Governor Landon's effort on that occasion I will not comment upon. The country has not forgotten that acceptance speech, however much the Landon strategists wish that it might."

"In this speech Governor Landon was silent on his relationship with William Randolph Hearst. Since then more than one opportunity has been given to him and to Colonel Knox to establish this relationship."

"People of generous minds are loath to believe that these gentlemen are going to accept the support of Mr. Hearst and at the same time, by their silence, refuse to acknowledge their obligation to him. Least of all do they wish to credit the story that is going the rounds to the effect that Governor Landon will accept the support of Mr. Hearst until after the election and then repudiate him, win or lose. No one wants to have such an opinion as that of the Republican candidate."

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The commissariat of agriculture charged a ring of Trotskyites was responsible for the breakdown of the Soviet's cotton program of 1935.

Isaac Reingold, one of the 16 confessed conspirators who were executed Monday, was named as ringleader in the sensational accusations which included a charge that failure of the cotton program compelled the Soviet to import American cotton last year.

TALMADGE IS PLANNING LAST DESPERATE DRIVE

Talmadge made only one speech a week. In the middle of the drive he stepped the schedule up to two. For the last several weeks he has been making five and six addresses. Now comes the stiffest schedule he has made since he went all over Georgia in 1932 seeking the governorship. In that campaign Talmadge made nearly 150 speeches.

Prediction Comes True.
When asked about three weeks ago how many speeches he planned to make during the campaign, Talmadge said "as many as my duties at the capitol will permit." However, a day or two later, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., speaking at Buchanan, said, "I'll have him speaking every day before the campaign begins."

Although the Talmadge inner circle still reports that he is extremely confident that the Governor is in the race, there is every indication that they are reaching a stage of desperation. In this connection it might be well to say that Talmadge always runs a scared race, but there is every reason to believe that this time there is ample reason for such a course.

In the last several weeks Senator Russell has been running true to form. As in past Russell campaigns he has pointed his battles to reach their peak a week or 10 days before the primary. Indications are today that the Russell campaign is near its peak, probably touching the zenith tomorrow at Warm Springs.

Reached Peak July 4.
All observers agree that Talmadge reached his peak at McKee on July 4. The strategy of the Governor not announcing what office he would seek made the McKee meeting the climax of the summer as far as Talmadge's campaign is concerned. Since that time Talmadge has been slipping, sometimes almost sliding. He still has a pretty good statewide popular vote but the indications are that the unit vote majority of Senator Russell will be most surprising.

The Russell organization, long known to be one of the best Georgia ever saw, is clicking. At every meeting the senator is greeted by a crowd which is more than satisfactory and these crowds gather without the hall-hoos steamed up by the Talmadge organization to get the crowds to hear the Governor.

The homecoming celebration at Griffin told the story of the senate race pretty well. Without much effort and without any organized cheering section Dick

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Relief Of Pain.
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints of urine and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may be flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Russell received one of the greatest ovations ever known in Georgia politics. The crowd had to leave home early to get there to hear Russell. The Talmadge people could leave in the middle of the drive and arrive in Griffin in time to hear him. As a result they both spoke to about the same number of people. At Russell's speech the crowd was about 85 percent for Russell. At Talmadge's speech, for which many of the Russell followers remained, the crowd appeared about 60 percent for Talmadge and 40 percent for Russell. The cheering was organized, however, and radio listeners may have obtained the impression that the fact that the audience was almost even that the adversaries battled it out to a draw. They didn't.

Talmadge got everything possible out of the Griffin meeting. It was intended to be the start of the final Talmadge push. It may be that the spark was set off at Griffin but all signs point to the fact that the Russell campaign is even fresher than it was July 4. Only a miracle can save Talmadge, observers say.

TALMADGE DEFENDS STATE DICTATORSHIP
ROYSTON, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Attacking Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., his opponent, for "rubber stamping" New Deal farm legislation, Governor Talmadge in a speech here today defended his conduct of state affairs by "executive order."

The Governor said opponents had little to say about what he had done "but they didn't like what I did it. I don't like what I had to do to it either, but it was necessary to carry out my campaign promises to the people—to reduce their taxes and pay the state out of debt. And that's what has been done."

Dr. Edward D. Brown introduced the Governor at the political rally which brought delegations from about a dozen counties in northeast Georgia and from Augusta.

Recalls 1926.
Talmadge recalled that back in 1926 when he was running for commissioner of agriculture "I promised to take the land out of the hands of the gamblers."

A supporter in the crowd shouted: "You did it, too."
The Governor said it was necessary, to carry out his campaign promises, to issue executive orders for 83 days because the legislature would not enact the low cost into law; that he had to issue a similar order to change the highway board membership and one to get lower utility rates by removing an entire public service commission.

"Yes, you did all of them things," came a voice from the audience.
Gets "Helper."

The Governor had a "helper" in his speech today. An ardent supporter crowded near the microphone and frequently injected enthusiastic questions into the Governor's address.

"What did you tell 'em then, Gene?" "What did you do then, Governor?" "Yes, sir, tell us what you did then, Governor."

Talmadge said Russell "can't make the people of Georgia believe that I have abandoned my McKee platform. He asked me about it yesterday at Griffin, and I told him."

"Tell 'em, Gene," called someone in the audience.
The Governor received a $400 check, collected in several counties.

Proud of Grass Roots.
"They can say what they will about the convention held at Macon (the grass roots convention) but it did more for the common men and women of Georgia than the senate has done for half a century."

From that convention I called on the President of the United States to abolish the Bankhead act and its taxes on you; within less than a week he did exactly what I asked him to do. "Thank God, you don't have to pay any more of those processing taxes now."

"Tell it to them, Gene, tell it to them," said a supporter in the crowd. The Governor attacked the Roosevelt administration for "burning up crops and destroying hogs and cattle and bringing about their more abundant life by scarcity."

"While that was going on," he said, "the providence was looking down on them and that's the reason they are dodging every issue of this campaign."

Denies "Statesman" Statement.
He renewed his denial that he had said a working man was not worth more than $1 a day and that he had called CCC boys "bums and loafers."

His opposition to the old-age pension provisions of the social security act and restated his charge that Russell had voted against war veterans by approving the economy act.

"Dick Russell didn't even know what was in the social security bill," Talmadge said.

"He rubber-stamped it?" asked a man in the audience.
"Yeah, he rubber-stamped it," the Governor came back.

The Governor read a letter he said was from State Auditor Tom Wisdom saying Georgia "did not owe any current or floating debt" in answering charges he said had been made by the opposition, that Talmadge "had not paid the state out of debt."

He said today he got nine bales of cotton yesterday at Griffin.

WAR SECRETARY DERN IS DEAD AT CAPITAL

all over the country will boom out a military threnody at half-hour intervals for the man who died in the line as a mining capitalist, state legislator, governor, and administrative head of the nation's armed forces ended at 10:35 a. m. at Walter Reed hospital.

Heart disease, which had confined Dorn at the army medical center since early in July, caused death. Mrs. Dorn and members of his family were at the bedside.

Dorn's death opened the first gap in the New Deal cabinet, although death previously had removed two others appointed by Roosevelt.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, appointed attorney general, died a few days before inauguration. William H. Woodin, original New Deal secretary of the treasury, resigned from office because of ill health and died later.

Active to the End.
Dr. Fritz Meyer, European heart specialist who flew here from Boston at Mr. Roosevelt's request to attend Dorn, announced the death. Word was flashed to the White House and a telephone call was put through to Steele, N. D., where the presidential special was speeding westward. The train was flagged and Mr. Roosevelt was informed. He ordered flags at half-mast in the District of Columbia and at all army posts. Later the White House said the President would attend the funeral, although the change in plans would not cut short the drouth tour.

Dorn carried on War Department business until late in his illness, looking over papers and telephoning aides from his bed. It was not known whether a successor would be appointed until after the election. A likely appointee to succeed him is Acting Secretary of War Harry Woodring, of Kansas, of three sons and four daughters. Two of the daughters died in early youth.

He was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, of the United States Engineering Rite Mason. His college fraternity was Delta Tau Delta. He attended the Congressional church.

Advocate of Defense.
Dorn brought to the Roosevelt cabinet an advocacy of preparedness for national defense although he declared himself "no militarist."

By backing up General Douglas MacArthur and Craig, his successive chiefs of staff, in their plans to reorganize, expand and modernize the army, Dorn proposed to build the army into a small, but first-class fighting force.

Although the American army ranks approximately seventeen in manpower—along with Portugal—it is now well on its way toward a five-year program objective which will give it new and faster airplanes, more tanks and armored cars, semi-automatic rifles for the infantry, modernized artillery and other up-to-date implements of war.

Advocated Big Army.
During Dorn's administration also the War Department extended its control program, started construction of the Bonneville dam on the Columbia river and the Fort Peck (Mont.) reservoir project, and supervised the organization and administration of CCC camps.

Dorn began his duties as secretary—like most civilian appointees to that position—with little knowledge of the War Department and its widespread military and non-military activities. He immediately started a series of inspection trips to army posts and projects by plane, train, motor car and boat.

Advocating an army of 365,000 men—which was finally achieved—instead of the "microscopic" force organized by Woodring, Dorn stated that the army had been "starved" for 12 years.

Protected Foulies.
When allegations were made of lobbying in the War Department in the interests of clients for sales or purchases of surplus goods Dorn issued orders for a thorough investigation. Information secured in the investigation by the inspector general was turned over to the Justice Department for action. The court-martial and dismissal of two high-ranking army officers resulted from the investigation.

When a congressional committee demanded the ousting of Major General Benjamin Foulis, the army's first flyer, as chief of air corps because of his alleged violation of the law governing plane purchases, Dorn declined to act until the accused general had been given a "fair trial."

Foulis, considering himself vindicated by the ensuing investigation and "trial," eventually voluntarily retired. Criticism of army air corps flying of air mail during an emergency caused by cancellation of private company contracts led Dorn to name a committee of aeronautical authorities which was "asked to recommend a course of action. From that committee came the Baker report with recommendations which were followed by Dorn—and a program for increasing the strength and efficiency of the air corps."

Non-Mormon Governor.
In November, 1935, President Roosevelt named Dorn as his official representative at the inauguration of the new commonwealth government of the Philippines. En route to Manila he visited Hawaii, Japan, China and Guam.

Before coming to Washington as member of the Roosevelt cabinet Dorn had prospered as a mining man and inventor of mining apparatus.

He was the second democrat and the second non-Mormon to reach the governor's chair of Utah.

The Utah governor met the then governor of New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt, at a governor's conference. When Roosevelt was elected it was reported he had been slated to become secretary of the interior, handling many of the west's problems. The Colorado river-Boulder dam activity, however, was reported to have raised opposition from some senatorial quarters and Roosevelt compromised by naming the Utah governor secretary of war.

Born in Dodge county, Nebraska, September 8, 1872, the son of John and Elizabeth D. Dorn, he graduated from Fremont Normal College when only 16, then worked in freight and lumber yards to earn money while attending the University of Nebraska in 1893 and 1894. There he played guard and captained the football team which won one of the early championships of the Missouri Valley league. Those being the days of push and pull football, Dorn was one of the chief requisites for gridiron performance and young Dorn had it. He was just under six feet in height and usually weighed around 175 pounds.

In the university eddy corps Dorn played an alto horn in the band. Lieutenant John J. Pershing and 40 years later the two were again associated when the amateur bandsman became commander of the department under which the retired general of the armies had won world-wide fame.

Dorn cut short his university career to accompany his parents when they moved from Nebraska to Utah. There he got a job as bookkeeper with a mining company, studied technical aspects of the industry in his spare hours and eventually became the company's general manager. In later years his business interests included mining, dairying, canning, power and banking.

In politics he made a mark as a state senator for eight years, then served as many more as governor before going to Washington.

Dorn's first Utah work was with the Mercer Gold Mining and Milling company. After a short apprenticeship on its books, he was made treasurer of the company and when, six years later, the company absorbed other mines and became the Consolidated Mercer Gold Mines Company, he was named general manager.

He continued in that post until the company closed its mines in 1913. Then he was successively general manager of the Mines Operating Company at Park City, Utah, and of the Tintic Milling Company at Silver City, Utah.

In 1914 he made his first entry into politics and was elected to the state senate, serving in that legislative body through 1925. He sponsored the state workmen's compensation act, its corporate practices law and several other progressive measures. In World War years he was a member of the state senate of defense.

He ran for governor in 1924, his opponent being Governor Mabey and someone evolved the punning slogan, "We want a Dorn good governor and we don't mean Mabey." He was elected for a four-year term and at once became active in the Boulder Dam discussion.

Dorn took the position that the Colorado river belonged to the several states through which it flowed and not to the federal government. Therefore, he contended, congress must take account the future needs of the upper basin states, although at the same time he acknowledged the justice of California's plea that the dam should be built so as to protect lives and property in the Imperial Valley from periodic floods.

In 1927 he was made chairman of the seven states conference and when he ran for re-election as governor he scored another victory. This extended his term until January 1, 1933.

Dorn was married June 1, 1899, to Lottie Brown, of Fremont, Neb. They had six sons of three and four daughters. Two of the daughters died in early youth.

He was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, of the United States Engineering Rite Mason. His college fraternity was Delta Tau Delta. He attended the Congressional church.

DAIRYMAN SURRENDERS IN PROBE OF MILK WAR

dairyman, Henson is quoted by police as saying:
"I was the man who introduced the milk to the man who paid me expense money."

"Hell, Mr. Peek, somebody 'set' me. Detectives know more about all this than I do. I'm going to the chain gang, and somebody is going with me."

In referring to "expense" money, according to detectives, Henson said he was to be paid $250 more Monday. The arrested man told police that "Jones" gave him $25 for expense money, before he tossed the notes, and was to give him $250 more Monday. He said "Jones" "got after him" for failing to throw the messages through two windows.

Stores Were Dynamited.
Marked by acts of terrorism during the last two weeks, the milk-price "war" flared anew over the week-end when a blast of dynamite wrecked a grocery on Primrose street, another dynamiting was attempted and persons tossed notes of warning in the stores of several milk dealers, allegedly because of low prices on milk.

Henson, his wife, Mrs. Eva Henson, and Jack Rodman, all of White hall addresses, were arrested Monday on a charge of suspicion of bombing. Detectives Jack Woodruff, E. I. Hill, and John Chester and W. M. Holland have pushed an investigation since then. A special squad of police has patrolled the streets with orders "not to shoot to kill anyone caught in the act of tossing a bomb."

In his reference to tossing notes, Henson said that he was not accompanied by his wife or by Rodman when warnings were tossed at the stores on Rawson and Gordon streets. Previously, Mrs. Henson denied any one of the trio had participated in former acts of terrorism or that they knew anything about them.

Peek Denies Charges.
When confronted by Henson yesterday, Peek denied knowing either him or the other man sought, according to police.

Henson told police that Peek took him to Whitehall and Garnett streets to meet "Jones," and that he once telephoned the dairyman. At that time, Henson said, according to police, Peek told him "Jones" telephone number.

Peek was arrested and acquitted in a milk-price "war" several years ago when an Atlanta dairyman was taken to the woods and beaten, according to the records.

Charges against Henson, his wife and Rodman were changed late yesterday from suspicion of bombing to disorderly conduct and malicious mischief. They are being held in default of $1,000 bond each.

Hearings for Peek and the three others charged are scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Monday afternoon. Detectives said yesterday they planned to seek indictments against Peek and "Jones" today.

WELLS PRAISES KEY, ASSAILS HARTSFIELD

I and I propose to enliven it a little," Wells told the audience. "Mr. Hartsfield made the statement several months ago in the office of Mr. Rantlin (Councilman Horace M. Rantlin) that the only thing wrong with the police department was that it ought to be let alone."

Councilman Rantlin last night said he does not recall any such conversation.

"Now he comes out flaying the department. He was four-flushing several months ago or he is four-flushing now. I don't know which."

"About that cartoon he caused to be published showing the mayor in a saloon. That was a foul ball. It was a lick below the belt."

Key's Character Lauded.
"There is not a man in Atlanta I would rather beat than Mayor Key. I am his most bitter political enemy. I think he is an enemy of labor, a severe critic of the public schools and hard-boiled, and I want to beat him for mayor, but I challenge anyone to point his finger at any single public act which was not above board. His character should not be attacked."

"Mr. Hartsfield is in a talking about running the city. Why, if business had the small pox, Bill Hartsfield would never catch it."

"If you are looking for a man of mediocre ability, elect Mr. Hartsfield as your mayor. If you want a businessman, vote for and elect me, the only businessman in the city who will be to keep about 100 yards ahead of those officials."

Key referred to Hartsfield's promise to run Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant as "Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole out of town in the event of his election."

"Busy With Job."
"I've been too busy to make many speeches in this race," the mayor added, "I've been busy trying to make jobs for men who want to work. I've been busy trying to help them find work."

"We are on the verge of a new era of prosperity. The dawn is breaking. We can see the sunlight through the dark clouds."

"I don't know whether the people of Atlanta are ready to turn their city administration over to any rank amateurs or not."

"Some of the candidates are taking themselves too seriously. They are resorting to unbecoming things which they should not do or say. I've established a policy of handling the mayor's office and my campaigns with honor and dignity. I will not depart from that custom."

Stands on Record.
"I submit my candidacy on the basis of my record of achievement. If it is acceptable to you, I shall be most happy to have you vote for me."

White predicted his nomination by an overwhelming vote. He reviewed his record, pointing out park improvements made while he served as chairman of the parks committee of council.

He related that the federal government of California's plan to remodel the auditorium army at his insistence, and said he counted as his personal friends those in charge of federal administrations in Atlanta and Georgia.

White took a side-swipe at the failure of city council and the Democratic executive committee to seek a public expression on his proposal to establish a council-city manager form of government for Atlanta, and asserted "I am always ready for the people to vote on any fairly controversial matter which affects their welfare."

He championed changes in the traffic laws, adding "We can never reduce highway killings until we have proper traffic laws properly enforced."

TALMADGE IS PLAYED FOR EVADING QUERIES

sell referred to the Governor's "military dictatorship," and at this point a group of men appeared with dummy rifles, escorting a man made up to resemble the Governor, who carried a monkey labeled "Me too."

Two bales of cotton were auctioned at Sylvania to benefit the Russell campaign fund. J. T. Avery, a businessman of Screven county, introduced the senator there. There were a number of other speakers on the program.

Allen Speaks.
The senator was introduced here by Marion H. Allen, his campaign manager, a Milledgeville attorney.

Allen attacked Governor Talmadge as a "selfish demagogue," termed him "an absolute dictator" and charged that if elected the Governor would "bring the state government to the Roosevelt."

Allen said "This man (Talmadge) of brazen egotism used the national guard to terrorize the people, to terrorize men and women."

"Talmadge will never be called Junior—I mean junior United States senator from Georgia," Allen said in assailing Talmadge's references to the senator as "Junior."

Allen attacked Talmadge for saying that Georgia had not received her proportionate share of federal money during the Roosevelt administration.

$22.17 for $1.
He said, "For every federal dollar that has been taken out of Georgia since the New Deal has been helping the people of this nation, the people of this state have received back $22.17."

Representatives from Putnam, Wilkinson, Jones, Hancock, Baldwin and Washington counties spoke on the program. It was announced that two more bales of cotton had been given to the Russell campaign chest by the farmers of Baldwin county.

Russell warned his listeners against persons "putting out a paper between midnight and sunup among the mill people and tenant farmers."

He charged such activity "reflected on the intelligence" of the people given the paper.

"Gene Talmadge goes about over the state saying the negroes are going to get practically all of the old-age pensions while the white people pay," Russell said.

Federal Statistics.
"I have here in my hand federal statistics showing there are only about 35,000 negroes 65 years and older in Georgia—Gene says there are 75,000—and two white people in the same age to every negro. I don't know where Gene gets his figures."

Russell charged that the "power of the state government—the state employees—are being used in this campaign as no man ever has dared use them before," in urging his supporters to work for him.

"Talmadge talks about my voting for the economy act hurting the soldiers," Russell said, "well I did work for that measure cutting all salaries 15 per cent, that was for all the government workers except the President of the United States and the constitution fixes that. My salary was included."

"What has Gene done? I'll tell you. He cut the pay of the state workers many times fewer of them are getting a living wage, but he didn't reduce his own pay one cent."

JULY ACTIVITY SHOWN IN BUSINESS SURVEY

phatological agencies have repaid a total of $292,000.00 of their borrowings from the federal government.

The Reserve Board review asserted that industrial production, which normally declines in July, continued at or above the level of the preceding three months, the index touching 108 per cent of the 1923-25 average as compared with 103 in June.

Steel output continued up despite a drop in automobile production, which fell off less than seasonally, the board reported.

Nondurable goods production rose over June because of activity in cotton, silk and flour mills and shoe factories.

Crops Lower.
Factory employment increased further in July, contrary to the seasonal tendency," the board said. "The number of workers was larger than in June at steel mills, foundry and machine shops, and furniture factories, while railroad repair shops showed a decline."

"Talmadge talks about my voting for the economy act hurting the sol-lay, potatoes and other agriculture crops than last year. Retail trade, the board reported, was higher than usual, while freight car loadings were up in July.

The drouth caused a continued rise in commodity prices, chiefly in wheat, flour, feed grains and dairy products, the board said.

The board reported that excess reserves of member banks decreased from $2,920,

HARTSFIELD ASSAILS

'TWIN POLICE CHIEFS'

Mayorality Candidate Tells Cheering Crowd He Is Means of Referendum.

Offering his candidacy "as the means by which the people of Atlanta may hold a referendum on the efficiency of the twin police chiefs," William B. Hartsfield, mayorality candidate, arraigned the Key administration's law enforcement and financial policies on charges of inefficiency at a political rally at the Tenth Street school last night.

"Sturdivant and Poole are the cankers to the proper law enforcement in this town," Hartsfield charged during the course of his address. "In my opinion, both men ought to be removed and if you elect me, and back me with councilmen whom I will remove them. I am giving the people a free referendum on Sturdivant and Poole. I say here now that Atlanta people have the chance to vote approval or disapproval of the mayor and police chief of Poole by a vote for or against William B. Hartsfield."

Applauded by Crowd. His statement, coming near the end of his talk, drew a hearty round of applause from his listeners. Hartsfield took occasion also to score the chief of police for "running out of the police station and auditor whom he had sent down to examine the court records. Hartsfield said he sent the auditor to examine the records because he wanted information as to the number of pardons the mayor and police chief had granted to persons convicted of traffic violations.

"People are being pardoned for campaign purposes after having been justly convicted and fined," the candidate charged. "On the other hand," he said, "Ralph Owens was personally escorted behind the desk at police station by the chief of police and allowed to examine the books to see the numbers of his cars police had in custody. But you and I, law-abiding citizens, cannot get at public court records."

The mayorality candidate stated that since he was offering himself as the means to express public disapproval of the police department's present heads, the public ought to sound out candidates for alderman and council on the issue.

Referendum Means. "I do not mean to embarrass any other candidates running for public office," he continued, "but since I am offering myself as the means of a referendum on Sturdivant and Poole, I think you people have a right to find out how councilman candidates stand on them."

After having charged that Mayor Key's administration was not supported by people like Sturdivant and Poole who have political power and mean to keep it and by special selfish interests who have something to gain, Hartsfield focused his attacks on the Atlanta taxicab situation, charging that through certain ordinances a virtual monopoly had been created.

"If an outside company wants to establish a taxicab company in Atlanta," Hartsfield said, "they can't. An ordinance provides that it is up to the mayor and a select committee to allow the new company to operate at their discretion. Over in Birmingham, and down in New Orleans," he continued, "they have cheaper cab rates than in Atlanta. If one of those companies tried to operate here, according to that ordinance, they could be jailed."

To prove his point, Hartsfield read the ordinance to his auditors, who cheered when he declared it to be an unfair effort to create monopoly. Hartsfield promised to lay off the city's pay roll all inefficient, unnecessary "political parasites."

Candidates for other municipal, county and city offices addressed eight ward voters, and although there was a slight shower during the course of Hartsfield's address, few people left the school grounds.

Hartsfield will speak at Samuel Inman school at 8 o'clock tonight.

GRETA GARBO SUE

FOR ALLEGED DEBT

$10,500 Sought by Assignee of Man Who Claims 12-Year Loan.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Greta Garbo, film actress, was sued for $10,500 today by the assignee of a man who claims he loaned Miss Garbo the equivalent of that amount in Berlin during 1924, when she was seeking American recognition of her screen possibilities.

H. Fitzpatrick, assignee of D. Schratz, appeared as the plaintiff. Meyer N. Willner, Fitzpatrick's lawyer, said the suit was based on the claim of Schratz that 12 years ago, after he had met Miss Garbo in Germany, he loaned her Swedish kronor and German marks worth the amount of the claim—upon her verbal assurance she would repay him when she became financially able.

A local court dismissed on a technical point a similar suit, filed some months ago.

JUDGESHIP CANDIDATE

RENEWS ACCUSATIONS

Edgar Watkins Sr., candidate for judge of Fulton superior court, stated yesterday that he will win September 9 on the record of his opponent, Paul S. Etheridge Sr. Watkins spoke before a group of workers at the shops of the Southern railway. "Those who know me well will practically all vote for me," he said. "Much the greater number of those who know my opponent, Mr. Paul Etheridge, former county commissioner, will vote for me. I find in my travels throughout the city and county that generally the only thing necessary to say to a man when he asks who my opponent is, is to tell him and the reply in many cases is, 'Well, I'm for you.' It has been remarkable to me, the number of people who thus express themselves. "I find that the people do not want a politician for judge, but mistrust one who has had political alignments and has participated in the expenditure of money which has been helpful to himself," Watkins said.

MRS. KAUFMAN BACK

WITH AUTHOR-HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Mrs. George S. Kaufman, wife of the playwright whose name appeared in Mary Astor's "misstep" diary, came home on the Ile de France today with tears in her eyes, and refused to say whether she would seek a divorce. Kaufman, appearing downcast, waited beside an automobile some distance from the pier. When Mrs. Kaufman saw him, she walked over, but they did not embrace. "The story is completely dead," Mrs. Kaufman said. "Let it go back to its oblivion."

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Fox Has Historic Film

In 'The Texas Rangers'

Action, drama, romance, comedy and melody have been skillfully worked into a magnificent screen achievement in King Vidor's historic picture, "The Texas Rangers," which opens today for a week's engagement at the Fox theater.

Presented by a cast headed by Fred MacMurray and the wise-cracking Jack Oakie, the film lifts a page from the history of the two-gun organization which made Texas safe for pioneers, and combines it with a love story unusual for its charm.

Jean Parker, young star who captured the movie public with her work in "Little Women" and "Sequoia," holds the feminine leading role.

The plot of "The Texas Rangers" revolves about the adventures of MacMurray and Oakie after they have joined the early Texas organization of peace officers and are thrown into opposition with their friend of former outlaw days, Nolan. Battles of the rangers in carrying out their oath to "drive out hostile Indians, stop feuds, destroy cattle and horse thieves, gangs of stage and train robbers, kill or capture murderers, and make Texas a reasonably safe place in which to live," are shown in the course of the story.

Hundreds of "extra" actors, rangers and Indians took part in the filming. Edward Ellis, Bennie Bartlett, Elena Martinez and Frank Shannon and a score of skilled players, back up the principals.

'Case of Velvet Claws'

Is Billed for Capitol

Perry Mason, ace detective, returns to the screen of the Capitol theater, starting Sunday, in the new feature picture, "The Case of the Velvet Claws." Warren William plays the role of Perry Mason and is supported by Claire Dodd, Wini Shaw, Gordon Elliot, Addison Richards and Eddie Acorn.

"The Case of the Velvet Claws" is an exciting mystery drama and opens with Mason forced away from his bride on their wedding night to help solve a mysterious murder. The events that follow happen in rapid succession and lead to a most amazing climax.

On the stage in connection with this thriller will be a new revue called "New Fads and Faces," presented by a cast of 25 stage and radio stars. There will be new songs and novel ideas in the way of stage entertainment.

The current feature picture is "Drift Fence," a thrilling western drama taken from Zane Grey's novel of the same name and offers in the large cast such well-known players as Buster Crabbe, Katherine DeMille, Tom Keene, Benny Baker and Glenn Erikson.

"The Idol of Millions," with Jack Dempsey, will be offered at the Capitol through Saturday.

The present stage show, "Hit Parade," has proven to be one of the best to play the Capitol this season.

IMMORALITY TRIAL

Many Imprisoned in Improper Relations Cases

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A new series of immorality trials, similar to those which began last May at Cologne in which 215 Franciscans were accused of improper relations with youths, are producing many prison terms in Berlin. If one of those convicted is released here today.

This time, however, persons from all walks of life are involved—merchants, government employees, industrialists, physicians, workers and clergymen.

The district court at Bonn has been trying 88 cases. So far 20 jail terms have been meted out, ranging from one year to 18 months.

The district court at Munster, meeting behind closed doors, was similarly occupied with what the presiding judge characterized as "a veritable plague" which must be met with sharp measures.

Five already have been sentenced to terms ranging from a month to three years.

FIREMEN START FIRE

Oscola, Mo., citizens attracted by a blaze that could be seen across town looked around for the Oscola fire department and couldn't find it. Later they discovered the city firemen started the blaze in burning brush.

'Laugh at Blackmail'

Thriller for Rialto

The modern style in mystery stories is splendidly exemplified in the Columbia production, "Laugh at Blackmail," which starts a week's run at the Rialto theater today. A story that grips every audience with thrill and suspense, nevertheless it is handled in that light, adroit and cleverly humorous manner which seems to please mystery film addicts best of all, nowadays.

It is the story of two murders which spring from the mischievous background of a conscienceless attempt at blackmail. Two murders that leave detectives and audience alike thoroughly mystified as to the perpetrator and two murders that are not solved until near the end of the film, then only through a third homicidal crime.

Columbia has cast this picture in order to provide the best possible play for each character to be depicted. Heading the list, in the hero role, is William Gargan, while the heroine is Florence Rice, daughter of the well-known sports writer, Grantland Rice, and a girl who is rapidly leaping to the top ranks among leading ladies.

H. B. Warner, one of the finest actors in Hollywood today, has an important role while others in the cast include Nana Bryant, George McKay, Wyrley Birch, Kenneth Thompson, Alexander Gross and others. The director was Gordon Wiles.

The picture combines in delightful ratio, laughs and thrills, romance and suspense, and should prove a popular offering at the always-popular Rialto. With carefully-selected short subjects, the program is offered for the full seven-day week, through Thursday next.

Ted Lewis Brings Band

For Week at Loew's

Genial, high-spirited Ted Lewis, personification of the warm-hearted, fascinating music he creates, comes with his band to Loew's Grand theater today, presenting 30 minutes of melody and laughter in "Rhythm Rhapsody," offered with "We Went to College," a lively comedy about a college reunion, with Walter Abel, Charles Butterworth, Hugh Herbert and Una Merkel leading the cast.

Ted Lewis' band is one of the most expert and famous musical ensembles of the day. The leader's personality long ago made him famous. The program contains a rich variety of musical numbers, with the Radio Aces, expert rumba dancer, Edna Strong, Nascha and Charlie ("Snowball") Whittier as featured entertainers.

"Rhythm Rhapsody" is a speedy, well-paced, attractively presented entertainment, a stage show which is all the more welcome because of the infrequency of entertainments of this caliber today.

In "We Went to College" Walter Abel is seen as a busy, prosperous brick manufacturer, at first indifferent to the plans of his former college classmates to assemble at Old Kew for a reunion. But when he hears Old Kew is planning a building campaign, which will necessitate the purchase of a large order of bricks, Abel decides to go along, in the hope of landing a fat contract. So he sets forth with his wife (Edith Atwater) and a former classmate (Charles Butterworth), now Abel's notably ineffectual employee.

At the college Abel soon becomes involved. Accidentally he is made a hero, reviving memories of the days when he led Old Kew's football team to victory. He almost succumbs to the sentimental spirit of the occasion. At this moment an old sweetheart appears. Now married to a college professor, this ex-flame (Una Merkel) sets about involving Abel in a romantic intrigue which, if her husband knew, would mean defeat of Abel's ambitions to land the brick contract. The situation becomes all very involved, and very hilarious.

Turncoat Jobseeker, Son-in-Law

Gave Fortson's Latest 'Affidavits'

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 27.—Clarance H. Leary, editor of the Brunswick News and long a Democrat leader in Glynn county and in the coast section of Georgia, today issued a statement with reference to the last two Republican affidavits submitted by Judge Fortson in the hope of stopping the Rivers tidal wave in Georgia.

Mr. Leary in his signed statement says: "The political effect of any affidavits made by B. J. Ford and H. Ralph Smith in this community is nil, for a prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

However, had Judge Fortson investigated the political standing of these two men in this city he would not have read those affidavits at Griffin yesterday.

"Smith is the son-in-law of Ford. He came here from Indiana several years ago and was named postmaster at Brunswick by Republican Postmaster New, whose infamous conduct of the department is now history."

"Ford, a Democrat up to that time, evidently realizing how easily a job could be secured, turned Republican, thus deserting his party for a political job. He finally succeeded in being named as postmaster at Sea Island Beach and immediately appointed his wife as assistant postmaster. Thus father-in-law, mother-in-law and son-in-law had a monopoly of postoffice jobs in this community for quite a season."

"As a result of the Roosevelt administration these Republicans were displaced by Democrats and they have been arch enemies of the Democratic party since that time, and are now actively supporting Governor Talmadge in order to give comfort to the Hearst-led movement in Georgia to embarrass Roosevelt and the Democratic party.

"Here in this county where these two men are well known, and whose political standing is equally common knowledge, these affidavits regarding Speaker Rivers will only serve to solidify Democratic support in favor of Rivers and Russell."

"My only regret is the necessity of dignifying these men; yet it is necessary lest Democrats residing in other sections of the state get a wrong impression of them and their works."

"These two affidavits will prove to be a boomerang, for they show the Italian hand of political intrigue without a scintilla of truth to sustain them."

ADMINISTRATION ASKED TO SETTLE RFC ISSUE

Differences of Opinion Prevail Over Operation of Seed Loan Program.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Administration officials were called into secret conferences today to settle the differences of opinion with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation over operation of the government's proposed $10,000,000 seed corn program.

There was a possibility, informed sources said, that the seed loans, designed to offset drought shortage, might be shelved in favor of a straight commodity loan or corn sealed in farm bins regardless of grade. This would follow the program of the past three years.

The RFC, it was said, posed the question of government losses in financing high-priced grain.

In another drought relief move the Farm Credit Administration announced that farmers and livestock men in distressed areas who have no other sources of credit may apply for emergency crop and feed loans to carry them through the remainder of the year.

Closed conferences were held during the day between the Commodity Credit Corporation's legal authorities and officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in an effort to surmount the impasse which has existed for almost a week on the seed corn program.

The point at issue was the loan value to be placed on seed corn, and whether it would enhance values to such a point that farmers would turn to cheaper grades for planting while high priced selected seed went begging for bidders. The most frequently mentioned loan price of seed corn was $1.50 to $2 a bushel, much more, authoritative sources said, than prospective open market values on grades which could be substituted for planting in an emergency.

EQUALITY IN EDUCATION
SUPPORTED BY RIVERS

Country Children Entitled to Free Books, Gubernatorial Candidate Says.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., April 27.—A program of equal educational opportunities for children, regardless of where they live, was presented here today by E. D. Rivers, addressing a large crowd in his campaign for governor.

Rivers, sponsor of legislation for free textbooks, minimum school terms and other bills for better schools, said he would continue this fight until the proposals became law.

He outlined also plans for improvements and enlargements of the state highway system to put every child in reach of school bus routes, as well as provide farm-to-market roads to give new opportunities to farmers.

Rivers told of his fight for free textbooks at the last session of the legislature, a continuation of his fight for many years back, and said: "I have always believed that free textbooks were necessary to our common schools. Many of our cities are giving free textbooks to their children and I am glad they are doing it. But I know the country children are not entitled to them also."

"No white child in Georgia should be deprived of an education because his parents are too poor to buy school books," he said.

Outlining the fight in the last session for free textbooks, which ended in a veto by the Governor, Rivers said: "The legislature set up a special fund for free textbooks. This fund of several thousand dollars is, or ought to be, in the state treasury today. Yet many children have been out of school this year because they had no textbooks. That opportunity through all these months that the money has been available can never be regained by these children."

"In event I am elected I will co-operate with the legislature and give equal opportunities for education to every white child in Georgia. We will keep the schoolhouse open and pay the teachers adequately and promptly."

AIR RACE TO MARK
LINDBERGH FLIGHT

20 Will Take Part in Commemorative Dash Across Atlantic.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Plans for an air race between New York and Paris in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's flight in 1927 were announced today by Minister of Aviation Pierre Cot.

Prince George Bibesco, president of the International Aeronautic Federation, has accepted responsibility for organizing the race.

Cot and Bibesco said they expected 20 participants and that the winner would reach Le Bourget airfield in less than 20 hours, compared with Lindbergh's time of 33 1/2 hours.

Minister Cot said he would invite Lindbergh to greet the finishers at Le Bourget field.

ATHENS BANDIT TRIO SOUGHT IN ATLANTA

Atlanta police last night sought three white men who were believed to have headed in this direction after staging a daring hold-up near Athens, in Jackson county, after which they fled with $350.

Athens officials, who notified police here of the robbery, said the men held up a filling station and store and then took $350 from the home of Lee Kenny, the owner.

F. D. R. Tells North Dakota Crowd
'We're Going To Win Drouth War'

President Speaks From Train Platform in Bismarck After 50-Mile Motor Tour Over Stricken Area; Meets With Agricultural Experts.

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt took a 50-mile motor swing today through drought-stricken agricultural lands and then told a crowd here in the North Dakota capital that "what I have seen confirms me in the belief I've had for a long time—that we're going to win on this problem."

Attired in an old gray suit, mended at the elbow, the President made a dusty tour of inspection of several WPA projects and dropped in at two farm homes to chat with the over-all farmers, their wives and children and discuss problems created by skimping rainfall.

Before starting out he had received from the great plains drought committee a lengthy report recommending plans for making the plains states "permanently habitable" instead of allowing them to become an "economic desert."

Standing on the rear platform of his special train after his initial glimpse first-hand of ravages of the drought, the President drew a burst of applause when he remarked:

"Back in Washington there have been reports of despondency and a general atmosphere of gloom out here but I had a hunch, and I found it right when I got out here, that you people would have your chin up."

Another cheer welled up when he concluded: "I'm quite sure you're not licked yet."

Stepping inside his private car, the President approved plans to interrupt his drought state inspection to go to Salt Lake City, Utah, for the funeral Tuesday of Secretary of War George H. Dern, who died today in Washington.

The itinerary was revised so that instead of turning eastward into Minnesota and Wisconsin from Rapid City, S. D., Sunday afternoon, the presidential train will start the 30-hour run to Salt Lake City.

It will leave there late Tuesday. Plans for succeeding days still were being formulated. Presidential aides said, however, the President probably would go directly to Des Moines, Iowa, to confer next Thursday night on

THREE LABOR BODIES
SELECT A STEVE NANCE

State Federation Head Is Named Southern Director for Garment Unions.

Selection of A. Steve Nance, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, as southern director for three unions representing workers in the wearing apparel industries was announced yesterday.

Mr. Nance, who has been a leader in the affairs of organized labor here for more than 20 years, has opened offices in the Atlanta National Bank building as southern headquarters for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the International Ladies' Garment Workers and the Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers.

The new southern director said yesterday the organizations have no connection with the C. I. O., the John L. Lewis' organization of unionism.

The headquarters here will be maintained to assist workers in the wearing apparel industries and to co-operate with "fair manufacturers" against sweat shops and "chiselers" who have and may come from the eastern markets to take advantage of unorganized southern workers, Mr. Nance said.

"Such manufacturers are receiving free licenses, and tax free plants, thereby securing unfair competitive advantages over fair employers who have been established for years in Georgia and the southeast," the director declared.

Mr. Nance's appointment has been approved by the executive committees of the three organizations he represents. He will continue to serve as president of the Georgia federation.

All representatives connected with this office will be at the service of any other organization when needed," he said.

LONDON PARRIES
PROHIBITION QUERY.

Refers to Earlier Statement Urging State Decisions on Issue.

ABOARD LONDON TRAIN EN ROUTE TO TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon, in reply to a query from newsmen asking his stand on prohibition, today said in a statement:

"I made plain my position on that subject in a public statement last May and I would refer you to that statement."

The statement referred to by Governor Landon was made in connection with a radio interview on May 7, 1936, and is as follows:

"Question: Governor, a lot of people in the so-called wet states, knowing that you come from dry Kansas, are anxious about the way you stand on prohibition. Just what is your attitude?"

"Answer: I'm glad you asked that question. I don't believe my position is misunderstood here in Kansas, and I don't want it to be misunderstood in other states. We, in this country, had a long national debate over the wet and dry question. The people rendered an overwhelming verdict, that the question should be returned to the various states for such decision as their citizenry wished. I accept that verdict, and I believe that it is up to each state to determine its own policy on liquor, subject, of course, to Section 2, of the twenty-first amendment, under which shipments into dry states is properly forbidden."

ETHIOPIANS ATTACK
12,000 Advance on Addis Ababa, Repulsed.

ROME, Aug. 28.—(AP)—An official announcement early today said 12,000 Ethiopians attacked Addis Ababa yesterday but were repulsed with losses on both sides.

The Ethiopian dead, the statement said, numbered 200, while 15 Italian native soldiers were killed and 40 were wounded.

The Ethiopians dead, the statement in the report from the Addis Ababa Italian administration—were said to have advanced on the city to the south of the airfield.

Italian troops, both native and white, met them with the support of artillery and forced back the attackers, the announcement asserted.

WELTNER DELEGATIONS
REPUDIATING FORTSON

Beasley Announces He Has Heard From Half of Delegates.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—Mayor John A. Beasley, of Crawfordville, announced today that he has received notice from more than half of the delegates to the Weltner convention at Macon, which nominated Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, for governor, that they decided to withdraw their endorsement of the judge's candidacy.

"I have heard from more than half of the counties which supported Judge Fortson at Macon and they all desire to repudiate their action," Mayor Beasley said. "Within the next few days I hope to have some response from the remaining counties, and I am urging all delegates that they see to it that my request for their views on the matter as it stands now be furnished me as soon as possible."

"From all over Georgia the delegates who supported Judge Fortson at Macon now realize that he does not have a chance to be elected and that the only purpose he is serving by remaining in the race is helping the 'me' to candidate for Governor Tal. madge, Senator Charles D. Redwine."

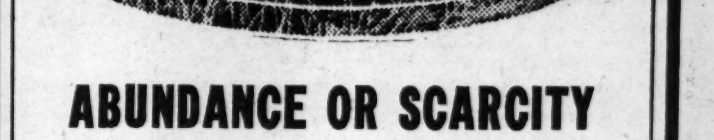

Mayor Beasley said he had hoped to get the convention delegates to reassemble but finds this is impossible. "For the farmers, the professional men and the merchants this is a busy time of the year," he declared. "We will have to be satisfied with a written or telegraphed report on the views of each county delegation. I feel sure that we will hear from most of those who have not yet responded in a day or two."

Mayor Beasley last week sent an

Drive through surrounding farm lands, and you will see that the farmers who have tilled and planted their soil industrially are reaping the benefits now. Those who have been slack and heedless, discouraged by recent unusual weather conditions, suffer privation. Think about that when you consider how much and how regularly you save money for future years.

ABRIDGE PRICE.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 11.66 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
Atlanta spot cotton closed steady. Middling, f. o. b. 5 points

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(P)— Narrow price movements and dull conditions characterized trading on the cotton market today.

Caught between indication on the new crop on one side and an increase in hedging operations for bullish interests the market made little progress in either direction.

For most of the day prices held around 25 cents a bale lower, but in the final hour analysts moved across the previous close and ended with small net advances.

October closed at 11.45, December at 11.49, January at 11.51 and May at 11.62. Middling spot cotton gained 4 points at New Orleans on sales of 6,352 bales.

Speculation over the new crop occupied most of the trade's attention.
Latest advices received from the field by reports on the situation in the northwestern part of the belt. Oklahoma continued to suffer from the drought, with no relief in sight. Arkansas is reported on government production because of a lack of moisture. Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Georgia have made favorable progress. Some crop analysts hold to the belief that the showing made in the east in the last month will offset the expected drop in Oklahoma production, and others look for a government estimate under 12,000,000 bales.

Although its report is still nearly two weeks away, the government's next estimate dominated dealings both here and abroad.

Liverpool called that speculative interests were on the sidelines pending another estimate on American production this season. English cotton analysts continue to assert that the world can absorb 12,000,000 bales crop this season without any appreciable decline in the price structure.

Cloth markets furnished constructive news today. One report told the sale of 8,000,000 yards of gray goods yesterday, while more inquiries were in the market for cotton yarn.
Season 280,000; last season 303,250.
Exports 8,051; last season 18,245; port 147,797; last season 169,272. Port stocks 1,206,286. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 25,560; last year 21,934.
Spot sales at southern markets were 26,437; last year 14,285.

COTTON PRICES QUIET
IN N. Y. EXCHANGES

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(P)—Cotton was quiet and somewhat irregular today, but showed a generally settled undertone on a moderate demand from the trade and covering.

December, after selling off from 11.55 to 11.47, rallied to 11.57 and closed at 11.53, with the general market steady at net advances of 2 to 5 points.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of 2 points over a decline of 1 point. There was some buying on relatively good Liverpool cables, but this was offset by hedging. Active months sold 3 to 4 points below yesterday's close during early trading.

Rallies followed on covering and trade buying after the early hedging had been absorbed. While the market exceeded under renewed hedging during the afternoon, the best prices of the day were reached in the late dealings.

General business was quiet with attention divided between the increasing new crop movement and reports of crop deterioration, particularly in the western belt.

Exports today, 8,051, making a total of 143,336 for the season. Port receipts, 27,450. United States port stocks, 1,358,705.

Liverpool Cotton.
LIVERPOOL, Aug. 27.—Cotton receipts,

WIFE, 34, ADMITS SLAYING HUSBAND

Man Found Unconscious on Asheville Streets in May; Claims Self-Defense.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 27.—(AP) Sheriff Lawrence E. Brown said today Mrs. Madeline Mack, 34, had confessed the killing of her husband, Elbe Mack, who died after being found unconscious on an Asheville street May 9.

Mrs. Mack was quoted by Brown as saying she struck her husband with a stick in self-defense, believing he was about to shoot her with a pistol. A coroner's inquest resulted in a verdict that Mack had come to his death at the hands of unknown persons. The widow was detained for questioning at the time but was released.

Four other persons, said by the sheriff to have lived at the same rooming house as the Macks, were held as material witnesses.

They were listed as Harris Johnson, 25, of Shell Creek, Tenn.; Green Harris, 47, of Marble; Viola Carter, 24, address unknown; and Corine Davis, 25, also of an unknown address.

A murder charge was made against the widow today.

HUMAN RIDDLES

That Have Vexed the World

By VINCENT TOWNE.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF ANDREW JACKSON.

When the Cherokee threatened a bloody uprising, in 1756, a body of British troops was sent to the impeded region, about the boundary between the Carolinas. With them went Hugh Jackson, an Irish soldier, who fell in love with the country. Returning to his home near Carrickfergus, on the north coast of the Emerald Isle, he persuaded his brother Andrew, an Irishman, to migrate to that garden spot which he admired in the New World.

The immigrants were poor folk of the tenant class. But Andrew and his young wife, Elizabeth, were of the best raw material for the making of a future race. He had toiled in field and forest. His sisters were like steel and he feared no foe. Elizabeth, a weaver by trade, could do a man's work and was not afraid of the perils of motherhood. They were of the class of immigrants that we needed and need far more today. Their two little sons, Hugh and Robert, came along with them on the slow-sailing ship. Some have said that who later had reasons for keeping secret the place of his birth.

These modest folk landed at Charleston and pushed up, by wagon train, through the pine forest fastnesses to the Waxhaw settlement in North Carolina, near the South Carolina line. Andrew Jackson quitted on a tract along Twelve Mile creek. For two years he toiled as a hewer of wood and a drawer of water for his family, a log cabin and cleared some fields for the plowshares. But before he had raised his second crop he ruptured a blood vessel while lifting the trunk of forest giant, which this avenged itself after falling a victim to his ax. It was the first foe that had ever conquered him. The nearest doctor was too far to come in time. So neighbors placed Andrew's corpse in a rude farm wagon and carried it to Waxhaw churchyard. He was but 28 when he gave up his ill-spared soul.

From the graveyard some friendly shelter soon. Wherever she went, she gave birth to a child a few days after her husband's funeral. It is generally supposed that this baby was some child of his father and was that one of her children who became president of the United States.

Elizabeth had two sisters, whom we will hereafter call young Andrew Jackson's Aunt Crawford and Aunt McKenry. Aunt Crawford dwelt on Waxhaw creek, in South Carolina, seven miles from the Jackson cabin, while Aunt McKenry lived two and a half miles beyond, a little way over the line, in South Carolina. It is supposed that the heart-broken widow set out for one or the other of these cabins, built by her brothers-in-law. Some say that before she reached either she stopped by the wayside, at a stranger's house, and there gave to the world the child destined to make her one of the world's celebrated mothers.

About the mystery has revolved, for generations, the vortex of a bitter controversy between the two Carolinas—each commonwealth claiming credit for having given "Old Hickory" to the nation. Some authorities believe that this honor belongs to neither.

"I was born in South Carolina, as I have been told, at a plantation whereon James Crawford lived, about one mile from the Carolina road and the Waxhaw creek." President Jackson is quoted as having said. By J. Boykin, who surveyed the Waxhaw settlement in 1820, the general's birthplace is very definitely located in South Carolina, upon a hump of "Twelve Mile Creek" that barely escaped the North Carolina line.

But another of the President's aunts, Mrs. Sarah Leslie, and her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Latham, always insisted that their world-famed kinsman was born at his Aunt McKenry's house, in North Carolina—that they remembered well because they had both been summoned thither in the night to assist Mrs. Jackson, and because they had actually witnessed the birth. Until her old age, Mrs. Latham repeatedly related how she and her mother had hurried that night to McKenry's, by "the near way through the fields." Three other neighbors are known to have testified that they also were present at McKenry's when Andrew was born there. And a patriarch of that region, one James Faulkner, used to declare that once, while they were sleeping together at McKenry's house, Andrew Jackson had told him that it was his birthplace.

In 1854, Colonel S. H. Walkup, of Union county, North Carolina, secured from 14 witnesses affidavits whose substance was that Elizabeth Jackson, from Waxhaw cemetery, started for the Crawford cabin, in South Carolina, but on the way had to take the nearer way to the McKenry cabin, in North Carolina, where she remained until after the birth of her child, when she proceeded on to Crawford's, there to make her home.

When asked by Francis P. Blair if he ever visited his birthplace, General Jackson once replied: "No, I could not bear to! It would suggest nothing but the bereavement, grief and suffering of those dearest to me. I could not stand it! It would break me down."

In 1858, one Davenport, in a printed document presented alleged proof that Andrew Jackson was a native of Virginia. Others maintained that he was born in Ireland and that he had the fact concealed when he first began to have political ambitions. Wherever it was, his birthplace remains a mystery that defies solution.

CRASH INJURIES FATAL

TO BOY HIT BY AUTO

ORANGEBURG, S. C., Aug. 27.—

Leland Ott, 14-year-old Bowman boy, died today of injuries suffered when he and a companion, Jennings Westbury, 11, were knocked from their bicycle by an automobile Wednesday. Westbury was killed instantly.

G. J. Cherry, 71-year-old Charleston businessman, was released in $2,000 bond today for the day from the Orangeburg county jail where he was placed yesterday after a coroner's jury blamed him and his negro chauffeur for the accident.

Bond for both Cherry, president of the North State Lumber Company, and Ernest Porter, the driver, were fixed at $2,000 by Judge Marvin H. Mann.

5 KILLED, 2 INJURED

AS FIRE SWEEPS HOME

HONOLULU, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)

Flames roared through a frame dwelling at Indian Orchard early today, killing five members of a family and injuring two.

Fire Chief Ray Smith, of Honoluhale, said George Smith, 64, his wife, Emma, 46, and their children, Donald, 10; Mildred, 7, and Marion, 12, burned to death.

Jean, 8, and Fay, 2, other daughters, were partially overcome by smoke, Smith said, and taken to a hospital.

Smith said Jean told him her father rescued her and Fay, then returned to the blazing building to save the others.

FOR E. D. RIVERS

Volunteers for Speakers' Bureau Include Democratic Leaders of State.

E. D. Rivers headquarters announced yesterday that more than 500 prominent Georgia Democrats had volunteered their services as members of the Rivers for governor speakers' bureau. These men and women are from every section of the state.

Announcement was made that Saturday night at 8 o'clock over radio station WSB, Atlanta, the following speakers would address the people of Georgia in the interest of the campaign of Speaker Rivers: James A. Fort, mayor of Americus and president of the Georgia Municipal Association; C. S. Baldwin Jr., solicitor general of the Ocmulgee judicial circuit; Carlisle Cobb, of Athens, member of the general assembly from Clarke county; Jere Wells, Fulton county school superintendent and a delegate to the Welton-Fortson convention; Wilbur H. Glenn, of Columbus, president of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce; and Walter Matthews, of Buchanan, prominent attorney. Jere Wells was one of those who seconded the nomination of Fortson at Macon.

These speakers will discuss the governor's race in detail. Rivers headquarters said that mail, telegrams and telephone calls were so heavy that it had become necessary to increase the office and secretarial staff.

Twelve more additional leading Georgia newspapers have endorsed the candidacy of Speaker Rivers for governor. The endorsement of the 14 daily and weekly papers are supporting E. D. Rivers. We believe that this is the largest endorsement of any candidate for governor in the history of Georgia taking any political stand.

'YOUNG PEOPLE'S CLUB' FORMED FOR FORTSON

Welter Movement Candidate To Speak Here Next Tuesday.

Organization of a "Fortson Young People's Club" was perfected at a meeting here last night at which time Gordon White, of Atlanta, president, reported that 114 of his friends, who are interested in the candidacy of Judge Blanton Fortson for governor, had agreed to form the club.

Fortson headquarters announced last night that Judge Fortson will speak in Atlanta next Tuesday night at a meeting sponsored by the Fifth District Women's Fortson organization. The program will include talks by several members of the organization, prior to Judge Fortson's speech which will be broadcast at 8:30 over WSB.

William Schley Howard announced last night that Judge Fortson will speak at Decatur next Friday night. Fortson speaks at Augusta tonight, Savannah Saturday and Macon next Monday night, August 31.

"TALMADGEISM MUST GO"
SAVING JUDGE FORTSON.
WAYNESBORO, Ga., Aug. 27.—Judge Blanton Fortson declared in a speech here today "The people of Georgia are determined to redeem their state government. Talmadgeism must and will go, and the men who helped make Talmadgeism must also go. I have repeatedly pointed out that Redwine, Rivers and Talmadge are equally responsible for the kind of government Georgia has today. All three must stand or fall on the records they have made."

Miss Holmes Weds Mr. Guerrant At Ceremony at Ansley Park Home

The wedding of Miss Sarah Williams Holmes and Daniel Hoge Guerrant was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on The Prado, in Ansley Park, in the presence of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles M. Wood, rector of St. James' Episcopal church of Marietta.

In the drawing room an improvised altar was formed against a rich green background of palms and seven-branched candelabra. On each side of the altar was a basket filled with roses and calla lilies.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Sara Ottwell, of Cumming, played a Chopin nocturne and Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words," and Mrs. Adrien Cortelou, of Marietta, sang "O, Perfect Love" and "In the Luxembourg Gardens."

Ushers were James M. Holmes, Dr. Henry Feldmann, of Gainesville; Benjamin F. Neely Jr., of College Park, and Signum Tulin, of Marietta. The bridesmaids were Misses Jeanne Flint, of Decatur; Margaret Waldon, of College Park; Lucy Evelyn Merritt, of Jackson, and Grace Johnson, of Manchester. Their dresses were of flowered chiffon, with the predominating dark shade being carried out in matching shoes, hats and gloves. They wore shoulder sprays of roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Virginia Phillips was enrolled as a new member. The September meeting will be held at the home of Miss Eunice Baker in Ben Hill, Ga.

Friendly Counsel
By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Our only daughter graduated from college this summer. Her father and I have looked forward to the time when she would come home and keep us company. Although we have used every argument to convince her that home is the place for her she is determined to leave us, go to a near-by city and make her own way. Is this what parents desire for their children?

A SAD MOTHER.

Answer: This is what fate decrees they shall get. And it is a pity to those parents who haven't prepared themselves to meet the inevitable outcome. Unprepared parents miss the time the baby spends with the local feeding station and resorts to the bottle and the cup and spoon. There is one long declaration of independence; of being fed, of being held up, of being bathed and dressed, of parental advice and finally of parental support. They want to rule their own—these young things—and they will.

The very advantage that parents give their girls now-a-days precludes the possibility that the children will stay contentedly in their small town homes. A college education widens a girl's horizon, stimulates her imagination to the point that she wants to try her wings in those distant fields. Her appetite is whetted for something better than her parents had or can give her.

The newspapers carry stories of high and successful adventure that lure her to the city. A stenographer becomes the toast of Broadway; little town girl makes huge salary as model for ads; young woman in years out of college is European buyer for large department store. And mama's daughter believes she may be the one Lady Luck is summing-up. So she may be.

Mama must remember that one day she too left home and expected her parents to take it and like it. Now her child demands the same privilege. Shall she be denied?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My best beau doesn't let his parents know he comes to see me because they don't like my family and oppose his going with me. I told him that if he didn't think enough of me to brave his father and mother that he needn't ask me for another date. This was a week ago and I haven't heard from him since. Is there anything I can do?

Answer: If your best beau is de-

Lois Fritters Her Corn But Not Her Time

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

The milky corn cooks in a few minutes, two or three at the most.

Corn fritters are of three kinds, one made from a mixture with a small amount of corn in a large amount of batter. These fritters are fried in deep fat and are puffy.

Then there are the so-called corn fritters that use uncooked corn only, are mixed with flour and egg, are fried in a heavy frying pan in melted fat or bacon drippings. The "oysters" are quite flat and are turned with a spatula or turner or spatula after one side is browned. The third type is a flat fritter using cooked corn.

She pulled the outer husks down part way so she could see and feel the kernels. When the thumb nail will break the outer covering easily the corn is still young and tender and juicy. Nancy had laid out the corn in a large bowl and she saw the grand array of vegetables and fruits at the green grocer's.

Miss Betty Stradley Weds Mr. Mason At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Betty Stradley to William Lewis Mason was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stradley, at 1015 Adair avenue, N. E. Dr. Louis D. Newton officiated. Mrs. Gordon W. Grant, pianist, and cousin of the groom, assisted by Miss Evelyn Polard as soloist, presented a musical program.

Palms and ferns were arranged in the living room and formed a background for the baskets of white dahlias and gladioli and the candelabra.

The maid of honor was Miss Florence Cauthen, of Atlanta, and Washington, D. C. She was gowned in peach net made along princess lines. Her flowers were blue asters and painted daisies.

Other attendants included little Miss Robby Taylor, niece of the bride, as flower girl. She wore a dress of blue net fashioned along empire lines and carried a basket of pink rosebuds. Master William Sanders, nephew of the bride, and ringbearer, wore a white satin suit. Ushers were Joe Stradley and Grayson Stradley, brothers of the bride.

The bride entered with her father, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, C. C. Calloway. The bride wore a gown of white lace fashioned on princess lines, with a train caught to the dress with a rhinestone buckle. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white asters and valley lilies.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held with Mrs. A. B. Leatherwood keeping the bride's book. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Joe Calloway, Misses Barbara Thacker, Glenwyn Young, Hazel Josey, Eva Rab Cheshire, Dorothy Wilhite, Mrs. Carlton Sanders and Mrs. Robert Taylor, sisters of the bride.

After the reception the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to the mountains. The bride traveled in a gray knit suit with hat and accessories of black. Her bouquet was of gardenias.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. L. Perry, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Leatherwood, of Atlanta, and Mrs. A. B. Vickery, Mrs. G. D. Cannon, Jean and William Cannon, Mrs. Alton Parker, Haley, Bill and Josephine Haley, E. B. Mason, of Lenoir, Ga.; Mrs. Carlton Sanders, Betty Gene and Bill Sanders, of Swainsboro, Ga.

First Baptist W. M. S. Day of Prayer.

Members of the First Baptist church will have on Wednesday from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock a day of prayer for state missions. Mrs. McMahon and Miss Mary Christian, corresponding secretary and treasurer of the Georgia W. M. S., will give addresses.

Mrs. G. W. Smart and Mrs. W. D. Baker will lead devotionals. Lunch will be served at the church from 12:30 to 1:30 o'clock. The program will be under the direction of Circle No. 9, of which Mrs. W. E. Crussell is chairman.

Benefit Bridge.

A benefit bridge party sponsored by Mrs. Peter Cline and Mrs. Charles Meyer will be given on September 1 from 3 to 5 o'clock. Lovely prizes will be awarded. Players are requested to bring cards.

Overseas League.

Atlanta Unit, Women's Overseas Service League, meets Saturday at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Perrin Nicolson Jr., on Piedmont avenue.

Miss Hodgson To Keep Open House For Miss Powell, of the Philippines

Miss Mary Hodgson will keep open house on Saturday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hodgson, on Parkside drive, in honor of her cousin, Miss Ruth Powell, who arrived recently in Atlanta with her mother, Mrs. Thomas N. Powell, from Manila, P. I. The hostess and honor guest will be assisted in receiving the 50 guests, who will include members of the college set, by Thomas Powell Jr. and Robert Powell, brothers of Miss Powell, who are enrolled at Auburn University.

Mrs. Joseph Hodgson and Mrs. Thomas N. Powell, mothers of the hostess and honor guest, and Mrs. James L. Logan, grandmother of Miss Logan, will assist in entertaining the guests.

Miss Powell leaves next week for Staunton, Va., where she will enroll at Stuart Hall. Mrs. Powell will take an apartment here for the winter. She will be joined next May by Mr. Powell, who will journey from the Philippines to be present at the graduation of his son, Thomas Powell Jr., from Auburn University. Robert Powell will be a member of the junior class at Auburn, and with his brothers, will leave in early September for that institution.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

BIDDING VALUATION.

In order to sell a hand at the bridge auction for the best price in the constantly fluctuating market of bids and counterbids around the table, the player must know its trick-taking values. The first thing a player does after picking up his hand is to take stock of the kind and the number of tricks that chance has allotted to him. The honor and length bidding values, which are more or less expected to reproduce themselves in the play as actual tricks, are called winners or bidding tricks.

Bidding valuation can be defined as the count of expected winners and losers at a specified bid.

After the player has appraised the value of his own hand he communicates the good or bad news to his partner, awaiting his reply. Until he hears from his partner (or opponents) there are many elements about his own hand of which he is either ignorant or uncertain. He does not know, for instance, the number of supporting trumps and the total high strength of partner's hand. The inferences drawn from his partner's and opponents' bids will throw new light upon the winners and losers in the player's own hand. It will enable him to reevaluate his hand and begin the second stage of valuation, which is called combined valuation and which consists of counting the expected winners and losers at a specified bid in the combined hands.

Today's Hand.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:
I don't claim to be an expert contract player, but some of my friends don't think that I am a complete duf."

(perhaps, I should say, don't know that I am a complete duf), so I hope you will be discreet if you publish the following hand:

Tournament hand.

"Contract 7: diamonds by North. East led the five of spades and West played the seven. North led out six diamond tricks. West shed two low spades and a low heart on the last three; dummy three hearts. East discarded the seven and two of clubs and the two, eight, queen and ten of spades in that order. North then played his last diamond. Poor East had to drop the jack of hearts; dummy threw the spade, and West the spade king. Going over to dummy with the club, North found, not to his surprise, on the third lead that they didn't break. On the twelfth trick dummy's last heart was led; West played the nine. After much reflection, North played the queen!"

"As the smoke cleared away, North said plaintively: 'Partner, when East threw the seven and then the ten of spades, I thought he must be holding the jack, as his only other card besides the last club.'"

"With insulting courtesy, South said: 'And you thought he led the five from the queen-jack-ten?'"

"Yes, you've guessed it. I was the North who didn't even think back to the opening lead."

"You're heartbrokenly,"

Signed "FRANKLIN EDGERTON."

When a man as eminent as Professor Edgerton: one of the world's foremost authorities on Sencrit, as well as an excellent contract player, makes an honest confession of error, who am I to heap coals? Especially when he pleads a broken heart!

Today's Question: The contract is three no trump. My partner bid hearts. My hand was as follows: Spades, 7 6 4 3; hearts, 2; diamonds, K J 8 6 3; clubs, 8 6 5. What should I have led?

Answer—The six of diamonds.

BRILLER RAISERS MEET AT ATHENS

Hall and Forsyth County Chicken Growers Discuss Problems.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Some 225 broiler raisers are attending "Broiler Day" at the University of Georgia college of agriculture here today.

Frank E. Mitchell, head of the poultry department, said most of the visitors are from Hall and Forsyth counties, which comprise one of the largest broiler-raising districts in the southeast. They are here to talk over problems of the industry with college of agriculture poultry specialists.

Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the college of agriculture, welcomed the visitors this morning, and a program of talks, questions and discussions followed. Mitchell talked about marketing broilers and pictured a bright outlook for careful expansion of broiler raising in the state.

Others heard on today's program were Arthur Gannon, extension poultryman of the college; and R. H. Driftmier, head of the department of agricultural engineering.

The visitors said they raised a total of 125,000 broilers this year. Mitchell estimated that the broiler raising district from which they came this year produced about 300,000 broilers, which brought them more than $150,000.

LIVERPOOL WHEAT STEADY.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Wheat futures closed about unchanged, the market holding steady in sympathy with the strength in the Winnipeg market and firm Canadian offers. Cotton closed lower in a quiet market, buying on bullish American crop news being offset by selling on prospects of increased hedging in the near future.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Jean Parker)

You Can't Be Pretty If You Don't Take Care of Your Lashes and Brows

By MIGNON.

(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

The one thing that women should be most careful about is their eyelashes and eyebrows. Don't, I beg you, let any salesman tell you to dye your eyelashes. If you are idiotic enough to care more for a trick like that than you do for your eyesight, only heaven can help you and it probably won't.

be conscious that you are running the risk of ruining the beauty of both your lashes and brows. How many actresses have told me this!

Even if you are one of those sensitive people who can't use soap and water on your face you can use soap and water or a liquid cleanser on your eyelashes and eyebrows. Probably more queries come in about the eyelashes and eyebrows than about any other part of a woman's face.

There are many creams for eyelashes and eyebrows, but one of the best is the plain old white vaseline that comes in tiny tubes, costs little and will do the work you want it to do. This should be applied at night after cleansing the brows and lashes.

If you think you are a better artist than the Lord who made you and can improve upon your looks by painting your eyelashes another color, I advise the use of the cake mascara only. Don't buy liquids that make the eyelashes as stiff as a whiskbroom. It is only natural to suppose that they will eventually break off if you use anything like this.

If your eyebrows are short and you want them to come to a point at the temple, use a plain eyebrow pencil which is harmless and will wash off easily. As far as my experience with these products is concerned I can say that the mascara seems to have an oil base, doesn't run and doesn't smart. The pencil is not one of those smeary ones.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bernice Denton Pierson, outstanding in social, cultural and civic life, was born with her sun in the Libra, birth date September 27. Libra is the sign of a fair judgment, generosity, self-reliance, intuition.

With her sun in Libra Mrs. Howard would naturally be interested in all forms of education, that from a scholastic standpoint, as well as educational recreation. This is evidenced by the fact that she is a member of the board of education of Decatur, as well as a member of the board of recreation.

A chart set for her birth-date shows that she has the sun beautifully aspected by the planet Jupiter. This planet governs personal expansion, showing success in new things and with new ideas. The position of the planet Venus shows that she has remarkable sense of musical appreciation, a love for the fine arts.

The Saturn-Uranus position tends to strengthen the will and incline to the occult path. It gives intuition, clairvoyance, and honest, upright nature, with broad views and conceptions.

Alpharatz and Andromeda's head, fortunate fixed stars, in this chart, give honor, preferment and favor from others. There is intellectuality and independence.

You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best-known astrologers. Mrs. Pierson does not profess the ability to tell fortunes, to foretell the future, or to solve personal problems, but she can give you a complete and accurate rendition of the position of the sun and planets at the time of your birth, carefully worked out, according to the strict rules of astrology. All you have to do is to fill in the coupon below, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the sun at the time of your birth, called a sun-chart, and with this sun-chart, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpretations, which will be published in The Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology. When you have checked each of your numbers, your forecast will be complete.

NEW YORK FINANCIER LEAVES PENITENTIARY

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Joseph W. Harriman, once powerful New York financier, left the Federal Northeastern penitentiary today, less than half his four and one-half year prison term behind him.

With his wife, a nurse, and a chauffeur, he sped toward New York in an automobile after a brief pause at the modest inn in Lewisburg where Mrs. Harriman kept almost a constant vigil during his imprisonment.

The former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, of New York, declined to answer questions.

Persons close to the family said Harriman probably would go to New York to make a position teaching business subjects.

COUNT OF COVADONGA REPORTED 'IMPROVED'

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Alonso De Borbon, count of Covadonga and erstwhile heir to the Spanish throne, was reported resting comfortably today at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center where he was rushed last night after suffering a hemorrhage. He was given a blood transfusion.

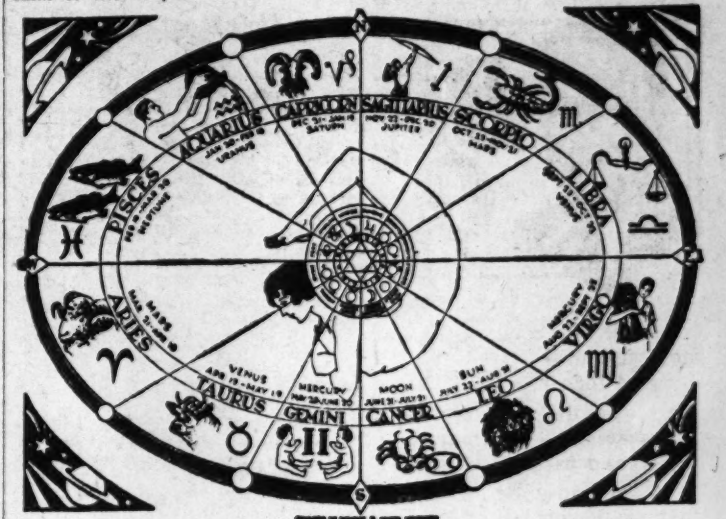

Dr. Antonio Valenti and Dr. Louis Ruffolo, of the hospital staff, said the count was in no danger and that the hemorrhage was slight.

The count is a sufferer from hemophilia, a condition which causes his victims to bleed excessively from the slightest wound. The disease is common to male descendants of the Hapsburg-Battenberg line, and is transmitted through the women of that family, who however, are not affected.

"Let Your Stars Guide You"

"WHO'S WHO IN THE ZODIAC."

MRS. WILLIAM SCHLEY HOWARD.

Mrs. William Schley Howard, outstanding in social, cultural and civic life, was born with her sun in the Libra, birth date September 27. Libra is the sign of a fair judgment, generosity, self-reliance, intuition.

With her sun in Libra Mrs. Howard would naturally be interested in all forms of education, that from a scholastic standpoint, as well as educational recreation. This is evidenced by the fact that she is a member of the board of education of Decatur, as well as a member of the board of recreation.

A chart set for her birth-date shows that she has the sun beautifully aspected by the planet Jupiter. This planet governs personal expansion, showing success in new things and with new ideas. The position of the planet Venus shows that she has remarkable sense of musical appreciation, a love for the fine arts.

The Saturn-Uranus position tends to strengthen the will and incline to the occult path. It gives intuition, clairvoyance, and honest, upright nature, with broad views and conceptions.

Alpharatz and Andromeda's head, fortunate fixed stars, in this chart, give honor, preferment and favor from others. There is intellectuality and independence.

You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best-known astrologers. Mrs. Pierson does not profess the ability to tell fortunes, to foretell the future, or to solve personal problems, but she can give you a complete and accurate rendition of the position of the sun and planets at the time of your birth, carefully worked out, according to the strict rules of astrology. All you have to do is to fill in the coupon below, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the sun at the time of your birth, called a sun-chart, and with this sun-chart, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpretations, which will be published in The Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology. When you have checked each of your numbers, your forecast will be complete.

BET SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—European beet sugar production in the 1937-37 crop year was estimated at 5,700,000 metric tons compared with 6,500,000 tons in the preceding season by B. W. Dyer & Co., sugar economists and brokers.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

ONLY CALORIES COUNT IN WEIGHT.

The popular idea of reducing is to enforce a single dietary restriction—nothing too inconvenient, of course—and to violate all the other dietary rules.

The would be reducer bans potatoes from her diet, or renounces the staff of life. Perhaps you prefer to go without breakfast, or feel that the supreme sacrifice is to go without sugar in your coffee!

As you may have discovered, the weight reduction accomplished through such hardships is nearly always infinitesimal. The reason is that while these food items loom large in the day's menu, taken singly they contribute comparatively little to the day's calorie total—and you can gain weight on a potatoes diet!

The average potato is less dangerous than it appears to the misguided reducer. It contains only 100 calories. You are not likely to eat more than one potato daily. A slice of bread—not too thick—counts 75 calories, and you can have both cream and sugar in your coffee, moderately speaking, for 50 calories.

It is the daily calorie total that makes weight or reduces it, and a single dietary exception works no especial magic on your weight. The omission of a single food usually makes little difference in the calorie total, because it seldom represents a bonafide calorie cut. When you go without one food, you naturally want to eat a little more of some other food.

Face facts and rid yourself of foolish notions of reducing by going without something you particularly like—unless, of course, it really means cutting calories on the grand scale, like declining the apple pie a la mode!

You can get slim comfortably without undergoing any great hardship, and with a fair degree of assurance that you will remain slim if you go about it sensibly. The balanced daily menu, planned for you according to your nutritional requirements, is basically the same as any healthful menu. The difference is in the total calories. The normal menu would supply all the calories needed for energy, whereas the reducing menu supplies only two-thirds the normal number of calories. However, particular attention is given to the selection of foods that are high in satiety value as well as low in calories, so that you will not go hungry.

By following the menu, a steady demand for energy is made on stored fat, although the reducer is furnished with all the foods essential to her health as well as many of the dishes she likes. If you wish to vary your menu, send for the "Pointers to Slimness" leaflet, which lists the dietary essentials.

Eighth-Place Chicks Trip Crackers in Series Opener, 6 to 3

Eddie Moore wants to manage the Atlanta baseball club one more season—

And then have a try at some major league outfit.

In the cool of the clubhouse—before game-time yesterday—the manager, who seems assured of his second pennant in as many years, expounded his ideas.

"I've had good ball players here. And I've had ball players that would work with me," he said. "I know that. And I've been lucky. I know that, too. I didn't know anything about managing when I started. I don't know how much I know. But I want to have a try at a major league job. I think that's an ambition any man ought to have who is managing in the minor leagues."

"I like Atlanta. Atlanta has been good to me. And I want to stay here another year if they want me to stay. I'd like to try and make it three pennants. And then, if there is a place, I'd like to try my hand at a big league town. I'm trying to learn something every day."

"I wouldn't want to be saying anything like this without giving full credit to the players who helped me win last year's pennant and stay out in front this year. They've done all I asked them, too."

"We've had a tough time of it since the middle of the season. Bill Schmidt's arm went bad. Bud Thomas got hurt. We've had to overwork our four pitchers who have been ready to go. That included Thomas. He wasn't out long. And they've carried the pitching burden."

"I think we can go on and win this pennant. And then we'll have trouble in the play-off. That was why we lost the Dixie series last year. Our pitchers were overworked winning the play-off from Nashville and New Orleans. When we got into the series Kelley was sick and the pitchers were worn out."

"But I'd rather have this gang behind me than any I ever saw. And we are going to try and give the fans a pennant and a Dixie series pennant, too."

Whereupon, he turned to swear at some mosquitoes which were buzzing about in the clubhouse. It was time to get on out there.

THE CALM MR. DURHAM.

The calmest man in the Cracker clubhouse before yesterday's game was Robert Durham, the round, chunk of a man who the night before had pitched the club to a victory over Knoxville.

He was, it is true, keeping an ear cocked for the sound of a stork's wings which was due, at any minute, to start flying toward a local hospital where Mrs. Durham was awaiting him.

"Say," said Jim Galvin, the big catcher, "how come you aren't pacing up and down like all prospective papas are supposed to do?"

"I did that the first time," said the calm Robert Durham. "But at that I'm just going to take a quick workout and dress. I don't think that stork will arrive before late tonight."

But it was no longer than a couple of hours later when

LINDSEY FAILS TO HALT TRIBE IN TIGHT SPOTS

Champs Fail to Hit in Pinches — Duke Homers.

By Jack Troy.

The steady pitching of Del Wetherell and timely hitting by his mates gave the Memphis Chicks the opening game of the series yesterday afternoon, 6 to 3. The second smallest crowd of the season, 846 paid, was on hand.

The Chicks pounded Jim Lindsey steadily and scored their six runs in pairs—two in the first, two in the third and two in the sixth.

Master Willie Duke took aim on the right field signs in the third with a runner on ahead of him and let 'em have it. His home run cleared the third tier of signs.

The Crackers did most of their hitting when it didn't count. They got nine hits off Wetherell but scored only three runs. For only in the first and seventh, when they staged a mild rally, was there any consistency about the attack.

TWO HITS EACH.

Farrell, Duke, Grace and Cottelle, collecting two hits apiece, accounted for 8 of the 11 Chickasaw safeties, 10 of which were secured off Jim Lindsey before he retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Ralph West finished the game for the Crackers. Uncle Jim was not in top form yesterday.

Towns Lowers Own Olympic Hurdle Mark

That Knuckler? He Holds It So, and Lets It Go

Emil Leonard, Cracker pitcher, throws the only knuckle ball in the Southern league. Pictures above show how he holds it—and how he lets it go. The pitching motion is the same as for a fast ball. It was a knuckle ball, thrown by Long John Niggeling, which beat the Crackers in the Dixie series last year. Staff photos.

A Knuckle Ball Beat Crackers in Dixie Series

The baseball set in our town was asking about that "knuckler" yesterday.

That "knuckler" that Emil Leonard is pitching to confuse the rival batters and his own catchers. It was a knuckle ball, somewhat similar to the one that Leonard pitched, which defeated the Crackers in the Dixie series of last year.

Long John Niggeling, of those Oklahoma City Indians, threw a knuckle ball in the Dixie series. It was most confusing. Very few pitchers throw the ball with any effectiveness.

In the Southern league our own Emil Leonard is the only pitcher using one. Long John Niggeling is using his in the American association with more than moderate success.

Peck Hamel, the Cracker center fielder, is very thankful he doesn't have to bat against Leonard's knuckle ball.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "that Niggeling had the best one I ever saw. I don't have to see Leonard's. He was tough to hit right or day, that Niggeling was."

Leonard developed his all by himself. He didn't know it was good until he started using it at Brooklyn last year.

Wilbur Good's Record Threatened by Dwyer

Vol Right Fielder Already Has 205 Hits, Only 31 Shy of Ex-Cracker's Mark.

By Jack Troy.

The good year 1936 has seen slugging pick up to an amazing extent in the Southern league.

So much so, in fact, that the 11-year record for the most hits in one season, 236, established in 1925 by the Atlanta Crackers' own Wilbur Good, is threatened.

Jersey Joe Dwyer, slugging right fielder of those Nashville Vols, is the first Southern league player in three years to pass the 200-hit mark. Back in 1932, Frank Wofford, Walter French and a couple of others surpassed the goal.

Since then Poco Taitt's 194 hits of last season has been tops.

33 GAMES TO GO. Now, this year Jersey Joe Dwyer, who has 22 games left to play for the Vols, is threatening to equal or surpass the great record of Wilbur Good. Not only that but Freddie Sington, former Cracker; Marshall Mauldin, Atlanta boy playing with Knoxville, and Jim Outlaw, Vol third baseman, all are assured of getting 200 or more hits this season.

At the present time Dwyer has 205 hits. His average shows that he has been getting about 30 hits for every 20 games. And so, with 25 games to go, if he keeps going at this clip, he may beat Good's mark.

Sington is only two hits away from the two-century mark in hits, having 198. Mauldin has hit safely 192 times. And Outlaw, with 188 hits, is virtually certain to get the other 12.

Whatever the Vols do this season, whether they finish second, third or fourth and win or lose in the play-offs, the fact will remain that they have the real first-year find of the Southern league in Jersey Joe Dwyer.

DOUBLES RECORD. Dwyer has obliterated the record for doubles, leads in runs scored and may top the circuit in batting before the season ends. He and Freddie Sington are battling for the lead.

He's not the class of the fly chasers, there being several who can go and get them as well and better, but Dwyer outclasses them all with the stick.

His base work has been a big factor in keeping the Vols second to the Crackers this season. Dwyer is not a long distance hitter, but when it comes to slapping out those singles and doubles, he is in a class by himself.

Warren Softballers Win State Title

Warren softball team last night won the Georgia state championship and a free trip to the national softball tournament to be held in Chicago, defeating Beauty Motors, 2-1, in the final game of the state elimination contest.

Warren scored their second run in the ninth inning to break the 1-1 tie.

Lady Originator Of 'Men's Night' To Pitch Monday.

Miss Maude Stenhouse, originator of the "men's night" idea, will pitch the first ball Monday night at Ponce de Leon park when the Crackers take on the Little Rock Travelers.

The night will also be observed as men's night—the men not being required to buy a ticket to gain admission to the park (only a tax ticket required). Women will be required to pay the regular fee.

It will be the first time in organized baseball that such an occasion will be held—and a most welcome one to the men, anyway.

But the women will again have their regular ladies' night on Tuesday night.

GEORGIA STAR TIMED IN 13.7 AT OSLO MEET

Augustan Says, 'I Never Expected Anything Like That.'

OSLO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Forrest Towns, University of Georgia hurdler, today was timed in 13.7 in winning the 110-meter high hurdle event in an international track and field meet. This mark is four-tenths of a second lower than the world record made by the Georgian in winning the hurdle championship in the 11th Olympics.

Foy Draper, Whittier, Cal., won the 200-meters event in 21.4, and Archie Williams, Oakland, Cal., was second. The discus event went to Ken Carpenter, of Compton, Cal., with a throw of 164 feet 8 inches. "Slinger" Dunn, of Fresno, Cal., finishing second with 160 feet 6 inches.

Reidar Sorlie, of Norway, took the shot put with a toss of 48 feet 3 inches. Dunn taking second again with 47 feet 7 inches, but Bill Graber, of Ontario, Cal., won the pole vault with a leap of 14 feet 1 inch.

The American 400-meter relay team also took first in 42.3.

Competition will continue tomorrow.

Towns' record-smashing performance was made without the aid of an appreciable wind. There was a slight crosswind before the start but it was almost dead calm when the American, running on the inside lane, ran away from four opponents.

There was a heated argument among the three timers at the finish, two clocking the Georgian in 13.7 and the other in 13.8. An ovation greeted the announcement that the official time was 13.7. Towns did not touch a

Miley Defeats Hill In Women's Western

COUNTRY CLUB, SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., made a courageous defense of her women's western closed golf title today to defeat Mrs. Opal H. Hill, of Kansas City, in a quarter-final match which went 19 holes.

Two up on Mrs. Hill through the 14th, Miss Miley lost the next three holes, then rallied to take the 18th and square the match and won at the first extra hole with a par 4, which Mrs. Hill just failed to match when a four-foot putt failed to drop.

Dorothy Traung and the two Minneapolis stars, Patty Berg and Beatrix Barrett, joined Miss Miley in the semi-finals. Miss Traung defeated 18-year-old Hope Seignious, of Detroit, 1 up. Miss Berg put out

Mrs. Gregg Lifer, of Los Angeles, 6 and 4, and Miss Barrett defeated Harriett Randall, of Indianapolis, 3 and 4.

Anderson Hurls Well In Debut With Orioles

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—Frank Anderson, Thomasville pitcher, who left here last week to join Baltimore of the International league, made an auspicious start with the Baltimore club by pitching a four-hit game to defeat the Albany Senators, 6-2, in his first mound appearance with the Orioles of the Class AA league.

Glowing accounts of Anderson's initial performance appeared in Baltimore papers and were read with interest by Thomasville fans.

Anderson, one of the Georgia-Florida league's finest hurlers, a right hander from Birmingham, Ala., won 17 games for Thomasville's Orioles this season before leaving the Baltimore.

Senators To Train At Orlando Again

ORLANDO, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Washington Senators will train here again next spring, John Gangel of the Chamber of Commerce baseball committee, announced today.

Gangel said the city would pay the Washington baseball club $3,500 and would receive all receipts from 10 or more exhibition games. He said Clark Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris described the arrangement as "very satisfactory."

Last year the Senators trained here for the first time.

GAMES DESIRED.

The strong McCullough nine, serious contenders for second half championship of the City League is desirous of out-of-town games on Saturdays. Any teams interested please communicate with R. T. Aiken, manager, at Walnut 3393.

Alabama Golfers Elect Sam Perry

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Alabama Golf Association yesterday selected Sam Perry, of Birmingham, as its president for the coming year and elected Neal Collins, of Montgomery, vice president and Peterson Marzoni, of Birmingham, secretary. Perry succeeds Preston Watson, of Montgomery.

Dr. A. B. Harris, of Birmingham Country Club; Hugh Morrow, of the Mountain Brook Country Club; Preston Watson, of Montgomery; Gordon Smith Jr., of Mobile, and Guy Yaste, of Pensacola, were named association directors.

NIGHT BASEBALL.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Dixie baseball park here installed floodlights for night play.

WE'LL MEET AGAIN

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

"If he isn't there," said Gregg... "When he's busy, we send his cigarettes and tobacco around to him. That's how I know where he lives." Gay said, "Thank you."

She hurried to the address he had given her and found herself in a narrow uphill street looking at a quaint white house with steps leading to a balcony on the second floor. A vine, heavy with red blossoms, grew over the balcony.

She said, "I've found you, Chris," and picked up the bag again and walked up the steps. On the balcony she hesitated, looking around and thinking of Chris living here many months, writing, "I had no idea it was so beautiful," she said.

The door was open. It was like Chris not to lock his door. When she walked into the room, Gay felt as if she had come home and her eyes, taking in the worn divan, the desk with his typewriter on it, his pipe, loved each object because it had been close to him. "You loved me enough to write a play," she thought, "but that was months ago. Evelyn has been with you and you were probably lonely after Mac left."

She pulled off her hat and her hair tumbled about her face. It was then she saw Evelyn Ewing's picture. Evelyn in a white tennis dress, smiling... Evelyn loved Chris. What right had she, Gay, to intrude upon it and to thrust herself between them? And while Broadway hailed his play and the world had that song on its lips, perhaps he was falling in love with Evelyn. The thoughts made the room seem cold and unfriendly to her. She thought, "I should never have come. I didn't think that perhaps he doesn't love me any more. When he went away, I lost him to a girl who has been his friend all these months..."

She put on her hat again. "I'll stay only a little longer," she thought. "I'll go to a hotel and get a plane to Miami in the morning. I won't see Gregg and his mother. I'll go back to New York. Chris will never know I've been here—that I was in the room where he wrote his play. He'll never know that this picture of Evelyn sent me away."

Picking up the bag, she walked out onto the balcony and down the steep steps. A woman, stepping out of the darkness, saw her. "Gay," she said, "I'm looking for Mr. Mallory. He isn't at home."

"He hasn't been home for several days," the woman said. "I'll tell you where he is."

"I don't want him to know I've been here," she said. "I'll go to a hotel and get a plane to Miami in the morning. I won't see Gregg and his mother. I'll go back to New York. Chris will never know I've been here—that I was in the room where he wrote his play. He'll never know that this picture of Evelyn sent me away."

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

"Come on and play shuffleboard. We can't let you lie here all day."

There is one traveler who really should be handcuffed. She is known as the great tournament runner. You can spot her the first day by her sendoff. Usually most of her gifts are in the nature of practical jokes, and she stands at the rail shouting bright things down to a bevy of girl friends on the pier. The thing to do, once you've spotted her, is to avoid her carefully.

But don't think that avoiding her is going to help you for more than a day or two. She'll discover you eventually, and will dash up to you breathlessly with the remark that you've become the mystery woman of the ship, but that she herself knew all along that you were human. She'll announce that the shuffleboard tournament is just starting, and you really must get into it. She will know just the right man for you to play with.

The only thing to do about this pest of the seas is to be very firm with her. Tell her you can't play anything. Tell her you're having a nervous breakdown, or that you've got hoboic plague. Tell her anything. But don't give in to her. Once you give in, you are sunk. That is, unless you like tournaments.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE BEAR FAMILY.

V—BIGGEST OF ALL.

Kodiak bears are bigger than any other members of the bear family. They grow to greater size than either the polar bear or the grizzly. Their name came from the fact that many have been found on the island of Kodiak, off the coast of Alaska. They live, however, on other islands as well, and on the mainland down the Alaskan shore to the border of British Columbia. They are also known in the southwestern corner of the Yukon territory.

A full-grown Kodiak bear slain in Alaska weighed 1,500 pounds or three quarters of a ton. From nose to tail he measured seven feet and 10 inches and when standing on all four legs was four feet high at the shoulders. His hind feet were 14 inches long.

Ernest Thompson Seton, famous scientist and writer, tells of a Kodiak bear which lived 12 years in the National zoo in Washington, D. C., and makes this remark:

"He stood 50 inches high at the shoulder, and could take an apple from the end of a stick at the height of nine feet and three inches."

That gives an idea of how tall a Kodiak bear must look to a man who comes upon him in the wilds, and finds him reared on his hind legs—a giant towering from a height of nine feet or more. This bear has several names, among them being "giant bear," "big brownie" and "great fish-bear of Alaska."

Fishing is the chief sport of the Kodiak bear. He has no pole or line, but he has a quick eye, and a paw which can give a strong blow. Watching at the side of a river or wading in the water, he looks for a fish. When one comes in sight, he waits for the proper moment, then strikes. Out of the stream goes the fish, knocked to dry ground. When salmon are going up the stream, the bear makes a big catch.

Like the grizzly, the Kodiak bear is dangerous when wounded, or when drawn into a fight in any other way. An Alaskan gold miner was found dead in his cabin, and beside him was a note, "Have been torn up by a brown bear... Goodbye."

In another case, a hunter in the Yukon went to pick up a moose he had shot the evening before. With him were several dogs. The hunter caught sight of the moose, but another animal was there as well—a Kodiak bear, eating the flesh of the slain animal! The dogs ran to attack the bear, but the big brown fellow did not seem to care about them. He charged toward the men, who quickly aimed and fired his rifle.

It was a fatal shot, but the bear was close and was able to give deep claw wounds before dying. The wounds were painful, but the hunter—Mr. A. C. Bonebrake—lived to tell the tale.

When Nikma saw Tarzan motionless, panic seized him. "Fight, Tarzan!" he screamed; "do not die! Do not leave little Nikma alone!" The ape-man smiled grimly. He had by no means given up the struggle. He was merely gathering new strength for his mightiest effort.

Now he planted his feet firmly. His powerful muscles grew taut, and an electric energy surged through him. Then he flung his giant body backward. The clutching fronds of the man-eater tightened! But some of the roots of the plant were torn from the ground!

Again and again he heaved his body. Each time more of the roots of the devouring plant were torn free. Nikma shrieked with delight, and George yelled wildly: "Attaby, Mr. Tarzan! Now you're workin'! Rip 'em up!" But the savages looked on with silent amazement.

At last the whole great plant was uprooted by Tarzan's mighty efforts. The leaves fell away and released Ula and the ape-man. Then hoarsely, the vines rose from savage throats. "He has sinned against our god!" And two score arrows were turned upon him!

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL TO OPEN AT MONROE

Registration Begins September 1 and Classwork Three Days Later.

MONROE, Ga., Aug. 27.—The Georgia Vocational and Trades school will begin its twenty-eighth scholastic year Tuesday, September 1, it is announced by D. I. Barron, president.

Tuesday and Wednesday, September 1 and 2, will be given over to registration of students and getting them acquainted with the college. Regular class work will begin on Thursday, September 3.

Good Prospects.
Prospects for a record enrollment are the brightest in several years, Mr. Barron states. A large number of applications from a wide area have already been received, and a higher percentage of last year's student body than ever is expected to return.

Everything is being made ready to care for the boys and girls in the greatest possible comfort. Necessary repairs, which included screening, painting, and replastering, are being made to the buildings.

The campus is also being beautified. Hundreds of gallons of fruits and vegetables have been canned for consumption in the dining hall this winter.

Several changes have been made in the staff for 1936-37. L. T. McCarty, former vice president, will not return. He resigned his position in July to enter the insurance field. His work will be divided among others on the faculty.

New Teachers Added.
Two new teachers have been added. Hoke Spence, a University of Georgia graduate, joins the staff as teacher of agriculture, and Miss Lila Faith Smith, a 1932 graduate of U. V. T. S. returns as supervisor of the dining hall and dietitian.

Miss Viola Towler and Miss Eddie Mae Burton, who completed last year's work for Mr. and Mrs. George Butler, will also return.

Other members of the staff are: D. I. Barron, president and director of athletics; Miss Maggie Blasingame, secretary; L. Y. Bryant, English and librarian; Miss Julia Briscoe, commercial; Mrs. Sara Lowery, English and history.

Norris Dean, mathematics and athletics; Miss Evelyn Miller, music and languages; E. C. Pettillo, building trades and carpentry; M. C. Southwell, animal husbandry; Mrs. Elizabeth Tischer, commercial sewing; Miss Frances Wheeler, assistant secretary; and R. V. Johnston, supervisor of farm.

WILD LIFE SESSION ON AT WARM SPRINGS

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Four-H club members attending a wild life conservation camp here this week will stage special demonstrations of their work tomorrow for "visitors' day."

The 31 boys and 37 girls in camp won the term on awards for wild life conservation work in the 42 counties they represent.

The program stressed fire prevention, game propagation, insect control and other problems related to game and bird preservation.

G. V. Cunningham, state camp leader for the agricultural extension service, said agencies co-operating with him in camp work were the state game and fish department, the state forestry department, the state department of geology, the United States Bureau of Biological Survey and the United States Army, in addition to commercial firms interested in the program.

Exhibits prepared for tomorrow include game birds raised by club members, mounted birds and animals, and displays depicting numerous natural resources of the state.

HARRY BROWN URGES RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Director Harry Brown of the state agricultural extension service today urged Georgia farmers to take advantage of facilities for rural electrification offered by the federal government.

He compared the state's thirty-second standing in farm electric service in the nation to its tenth place ranking in number of farms operated. Brown said Georgia could better its position in rural electric service through co-operation in a rural electrification program.

The rural electrification administration, he said, has $50,000,000 to assist in rural electrification programs, with up to $3,500,000 available in Georgia. The number of farms served by central station electricity is 2.8 per cent of the total number, he said, 7,128 of 250,544 Georgia farms drawing power from such plants in 1935.

COBB COUNTY DIGEST SHOWS BIG INCREASE

MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 27.—The Cobb county tax digest is now in complete form, Miss Helen Griffin, tax collector revealed today. She said the digest totaled $8,770,275, a gain of $95,795 over last year's figures.

Polls on the digest are 4,637 white and 154 negroes. Miss Griffin and her assistants, Miss Sara Anderson, of Smyrna; Mrs. Carl Hester, of Marietta; and Stacey Awrey, of Acworth, prepared the digest.

DAWSONVILLE PAPER HOLDS 49TH BIRTHDAY

DAWSONVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Dawson County Advertiser, a weekly newspaper edited by Mrs. B. H. Howard, will begin its forty-ninth year of service next week.

Mrs. Howard had had charge of the paper for 25 years, succeeding her late father, Captain John B. Thomas, who was editor for 21 years. Mrs. Howard was associated with her father for several years before his death.

STATE DEATHS

FRANK H. TOLBERT.
SPARTA, Ga., Aug. 27.—Frank H. Tolbert, 35, of the Haskett county farmer, died at his home near Culverton last night after several weeks' illness. Mr. Tolbert was an ex-service man and member of the local American Legion.

He is survived by his widow; one son, Robert Tolbert, and several sisters and brothers.

Funeral services were held this afternoon and interment was in the Sparta cemetery.

JAMES B. FINNEY.
MACON, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—James Brady Finney, 30, widely known in this section, died in a local hospital today after a brief illness. He was taken to the hospital Monday for a tonsil operation. Pneumonia developed, which proved fatal. Finney had engaged in many enterprises.

R. C. KING.
WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 27.—R. C. King, 71, traveling salesman, died at a hospital here today. He was a native of Spanish Creek, Ga., and made his home here several years.

Miss Gertrude Castellow To Wed Congressman Ford, of Mississippi

Georgia Representative's Daughter To Marry in October.

CUTHBERT, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A. L. Ford, a Mississippi congressman, and Miss Gertrude Castellow, the Georgia beauty he spotted in the gallery of the house of representatives in Washington in July, 1935, are to be married in October.

Miss Castellow, daughter of Representative R. T. Castellow, of the third Georgia district, confirmed today reports of her engagement to Ford.

"Yes, it's true," she said. "My engagement is to be announced formally in a short time and the marriage is to be some time in October. The formal announcement will give the details."

Miss Castellow said friends told her Congressman Ford first saw her in the gallery of the house a little more than a year ago, and asked Representative Frank Welchell, of Georgia, to introduce him.

"But the next day I sailed for Europe. When I returned, congress was not in session," Miss Castellow said. "At the first of the January, 1935, session I met Mr. Ford. I was riding with father on the subway that goes from the house office building to the capitol. Mr. Ford was a passenger on the subway. Father introduced us."

Castellow is now in Budapest attending the interparliamentary conference. He announced Monday that he would not seek re-nomination in the Georgia primary of September 9. He said he felt he needed a rest.

Miss Castellow said: "He's leaving Mississippi tomorrow to come to Cuthbert for a visit." Her father, she said, "is highly pleased with his future son-in-law."

Miss Castellow is one of the most beautiful members of the Georgia group in Washington. She was graduated in June, 1935, from Georgia Wesleyan University there. She is the only child of Castellow, a widower.

$553,000 IS ALLOWED FOR POWER CO-OPS

Three North Carolina Counties
To Get Lines; Will Buy Electricity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Allocations totaling $553,000, for two co-operative power line projects in three North Carolina counties, were announced today by the Rural Electrification Administration.

Officials said the developments would bring electric service for the first time to more than 2,700 farms. One project, for which REA allocated $430,000, will extend 394 miles and serve 2,169 farms in Caldwell county. The application was made for a co-operative under the North Carolina electric membership act of 1935. Power probably will be purchased from the Carolina Power & Light Co.

An allocation of $123,000 was made to the Franklin County Electric Membership Corporation, of Louisiana, N. C. The project will reach about 550 farms and will have 123 miles of line in Franklin and Wake counties. Officials said power probably would be purchased from the Carolina Power & Light Co.

Caught Between Trains, Girl Gets Broken Arm

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Caught between two trains on a double track near the Shushan airport today 12-year-old Patricia Roth, escaped with a fractured arm and other injuries which were pronounced not serious.

The child was staying with her parents in a camp cottage on Lake Pontchartrain. Her mother had sent her to the grocery.

In attempting to cross the railroad tracks she was trapped in front of an incoming passenger train. Turning from its path she stepped in front of an outbound freight which struck her.

A motorist took the child to the hospital.

MUCH LIVESTOCK SOLD BY GEORGIA GROWERS

187 Co-operative Markets
Held in Last Year Brought $687,225.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Officials of the state agricultural extension service reported today prospects for a tremendous increase in livestock production in Georgia.

C. G. Garner, extension service marketing specialist, said 187 co-operative hog and cattle sales last year alone brought farmers $687,225.97. This figure does not include thousands of head of hogs and cattle sold independently of the co-operative sales.

Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, of the state college of agriculture, said recently Georgia imported about $40,000,000 worth of livestock products each year from other states.

Jarnagin said Georgia's pastures and fields easily could produce this amount of livestock.

Civic and commercial interests of large cities throughout the state are co-operating in plans to stimulate agricultural production, and marketing facilities.

Jarnagin said there were 10,000,000 acres idle in Georgia which could and should find profitable use and rebuilding if turned into pastures or planted in feed crops.

Garner's report showed hog sales last year far outnumbered cattle auctions. There were 143 hog sales, and 42 cattle sales. Bullock county, he said, led others in the state, with 18 hog sales bringing in $164,000. Sumter, Early and Thomas counties ranked next, in that order.

Dougherty county led in cattle sales. Seven auctions there brought farmers $65,814.

Two meetings of representatives of many counties are scheduled next month to stimulate interest in livestock production.

A group of representatives of 36 central Georgia counties will meet at Macon September 1 to discuss formation of clubs sponsoring increased livestock raising. Another meeting, of similar nature, will be held in Augusta on September 15.
